

U. S. HALTS REVOLT ON MEXICO

Rudolph Valentino Battles for Life

PARIS.—Long before this can reach America, to be printed, readers will know what the writer can now only guess. Poincare will have succeeded or failed, and with him the solvency of France and the hope of parliamentary government will have been realized or lost. This is the last chance for the third volume of them came out the very day he became, suddenly, the living leader of the moment. Caillaux, actually in power, issued a campaign brochure of his speeches, as "Ma doctrine" and the book was scarcely off the press when he was already ancient history, the only leader not included in the new all-party government. They do these things quickly, in France. An issue is drawn, embodied in a government, presented and settled, all in a day, which in America would take never less than a year, and usually more than four years.

THE writer was in Paris on that election Sunday, two years ago, when the people of France elected the present Chamber of Deputies, with the clear mandate to put an end to Poincare and all his works. Now he returns just as those same deputies turn again to Poincare, with the first semblance of unity they have shown in the two years. There was never a more dramatic "bouleversement" even in dramatic France.

THE situation seems desperate beyond exaggeration. The French government is literally down to its last sou—and the sou itself is worth scarcely a centime. For two months the government has maintained its credit at the Bank of France only by using for current expenses the Morgan loan, pledged to sustain the franc. Now it has drawn the last installment, even of that. Even the last franc of permissible inflation has been authorized. There is nothing more. Not only must something be done, but it must be done instantly, to avert the suspension of payments and the posting of France as bankrupt. It is a crisis as urgent as an invading army, and calls for an immediate action.

CHARACTERISTICALLY, the French have met an economic emergency by political remedy. Not by agreeing on a united policy, guided by experts above party, but by joining all the recent leaders of discordant factions in one government, they hope to achieve unity. The danger is that they will merely transfer the disagreement from the Chamber to the Ministry. But if the new government can only agree with itself, it has at least the votes of the Deputies. Or, if not, at least all the recent leaders who have successfully defeated each other must now take the responsibility of failing together. That would be the failure of parliamentarism itself, which has staked its all on this last play.

IF THIS fails, there is left only dictatorship, or the revival of the dead-letter right to suspend the Chamber and call a new election, and it seems too late for a suspension to avert the crash. Pending the election, unless there were an interim dictator, France would have no funds to pay its bills. So it means dictatorship, or revolution, or civil war, or unconstitutional. Readers will know which.

THE whole thing is the price of insisting on learning in the school of experience. The inevitableness of this crisis, and the remedy, have been evident from the beginning. It was also evident that this Chamber, by the party method, could produce no government which it would support in the necessary steps. But the Deputies insisted on demonstrating this to the people by making each of the impossible trials, and letting it actually fail. It was certain that, by this course, the franc would crash, but they let it actually do so. It was obvious that the final check would be upon government, dictatorship, or ruin, but they deferred these steps until all the others had actually failed. Now, the course which might have saved the situation is probably too late. It is like letting the patient die because a post-mortem diagnosis is the surest way of telling what should have been done for him. But that is politics.

POINCARÉ, whose determination to ruin Germany nearly ruined France before, is now called to save it. May he have learned something, since his last madness, as France has? And may God, or the devil, help him! The world is watching at the bedside of a great and belated nation, at the crisis of its fever.

Two Are Injured In Airplane Crash

MERCED, Calif., Aug. 16.—George Southard, 18, and Arnold Baxter, 17, were in a hospital here today, suffering from injuries suffered in an airplane accident near here last night. The two youths were passengers on the plane. The crash occurred shortly after the start of a flight and was caused by collision with a telephone pole, which evidently was not seen by the pilot of the plane because of the darkness. The pilot was not injured.

MOVIE SHEIK UNDER KNIFE IN NEW YORK

Noted Film Actor Submits To Operation for Abdominal Ulcers, Appendicitis

'VERY BRAVE, INDEED'

Girls and Women Flock To Hospital to Learn of Their Idol's Condition

(By United Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Rudolph Valentino, the movie actor, whose lovemaking has made thousands of flapper hearts beat faster, today was fighting for his life. Five physicians and surgeons attended him at a hospital here, where he was operated on yesterday for appendicitis and abdominal ulcers, after he suddenly collapsed in his apartment at a hotel.

Hundreds of telegrams and notes, from all over the country, were held up at the hospital, awaiting the time when Valentino might read some of them. Telephone calls came from as far away as Chicago, asking as to the screen idol's condition.

At the hospital doors, a hundred girls and women were turned away after they had come through a rain to ask about the welfare of the man who had entranced them on the screen.

Valentino fell asleep during the morning and around noon was reported still asleep.

Dr. A. A. Jaller, executive physician of the hospital, announced Valentino's condition was so grave that he could receive no visitors—not even his closest associates—for four days. F. George Ullman, Valentino's personal manager, was refused admittance to the sick room today.

Others of the surgeons who attended Valentino said only his excellent physical condition gave him a chance to live. Had the operation been delayed 20 minutes, one surgeon said, he believed Valentino would have died from convulsions.

Consultation Is Held

Dr. G. Randolph Manning, specialist in diseases of the stomach, and an association were called in today as consulting physicians.

During the morning, it was said that injections of glycogen, a form of sugar, probably would be given as nourishment.

Jean Acker, Valentino's first wife, telephoned the hospital this afternoon and inquired about his condition. She asked the hospital to express her sympathy to the patient and said she would visit the hospital later in the day.

The interest of the flappers, whom Valentino had so thrilled, was reported. Before 9 a. m., they began coming to the hospital to inquire for their idol. The first few were admitted to the office and their questions answered, but as the morning wore on and the numbers increased, they had to be turned away and finally the hospital doors were closed against them.

"It's terrible," the girls would moan as they tripped away in the rain.

A crisis in the actor's illness was looked for in the next 48 hours. Peritonitis has developed, doctors said, but if the peritonitis is localized, the physicians maintained, his life was not in danger.

Celebrated sheik of the movies, who is in a critical condition, in a New York hospital, following an operation for relief of abdominal ulcer, and appendicitis.

EDITOR FACES U. S. COURT ON AIMÉE ARTICLE

San Diego Man to Appear Before Commissioner For Preliminary

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16.—A. R. Sauer, editor of the San Diego Herald, accused of sending obscene literature through the mail as the result of an article on Aimée Semple McPherson, was to appear before U. S. Commissioner Head this afternoon for preliminary hearing.

Plans of defense counsel to introduce Mrs. McPherson and District Attorney Asa Keyes as witnesses will be opposed by federal prosecutors. The truth or falsity of the questioned article will be on bearing upon the contention that the phraseology is obscene, it is contended.

The evangelist and district attorney, and eight Carmel residents, have been subpoenaed to appear, however, at the trial here next Monday for four news vendors, accused of selling the questioned article on Los Angeles streets.

Ryan Will Testify

Deputy District Attorney Joe Ryan, who headed an investigation designed to determine identity of the woman, known as "Miss X," who occupied a cottage at Carmel, in May, with Kenneth G. Orniston, missing radio operator, is to testify at this trial also.

Mrs. McPherson's attorneys reiterated today that they would not allow the evangelist to be quizzed on any point not absolutely relevant to the actual case against the news-vendors.

The San Diego editor is specifically accused of mailing a copy of his newspaper, containing the alleged obscene article, to the E. E. Childs company, San Diego.

At Sauer is held for trial, his attorneys will seek to have Mrs. McPherson, her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, and her secretary, Miss Effina Schaffer, brought into court as defense witnesses, it was announced.

Resolutions Condemn Press

Resolutions condemning the methods employed by local newspapers in presenting the McPherson story to the public were adopted by members of Angelus temple, in secret session, Sunday.

Reports that the McPherson followers had voted to boycott the Los Angeles press were denied by the evangelist.

"Publication of pernicious propaganda and scandal concerning Aimée Semple McPherson has gone beyond all bounds of justice," the resolutions said.

It was also requested that the newspapers discontinue using the Evangelist's first name alone in headlines.

soon as congress meets this fall. The measures include the reorganization bill to divorce the prohibition unit from the internal revenue bureau.

Andrews will leave Wednesday for a vacation at Lake Champlain, but his secretary will accompany him and he expects to do some work while he is there, he said. The meeting of prohibition administrators, scheduled for September 10, will be postponed until later in the month.

HUSBAND OF SLAIN SINGER TELLS STORY

Mills Testifies Regarding Departure of Wife from Home Night of Slaying

WHERE DID SHE GO?

Replying to His Question, Chorister Tells Janitor To Follow Her and See

(By United Press)

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 16.—James Mills today told court here what he knew of the murder of his wife—Mrs. Eleanor Mills, killed in 1922 with the Rev. Edward W. Hall.

"Where are you going?" were the last words Mills said he spoke to his wife as she left their house after dining with him the night she was killed.

"Follow me and see," were the last words she spoke to him, he said.

"I never saw her again," he said. "I never looked at her body after she was found murdered."

Testifies at Preliminary

Mills testified at the resumption of the preliminary hearings of Willie Stevens and Henry Carpenter, brother and cousin of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, who are charged with complicity in the murders.

Mills appeared a broken figure when he came to testify.

"I came home," he said, "at the usual time, and my wife and I had supper together as usual."

"When dinner was over, she went to the porch and talked with our daughter. About 7:30, she started to leave."

"I asked her: 'Where are you going?' and she said: 'Follow me and find out.' She left and I never saw her again."

Mills said he had seen letters written by his wife which started with the salutation "Honey," but he had never read them. He had no knowledge of any romance with Dr. Hall in the life of the wife with whom he had lived for 20 years, he said.

Goes to Church at Night

When Mrs. Mills did not return at 11 p. m., Mills said, he went to the church, where he was janitor, and again at 2 a. m. he visited the church, then he retired.

"It was not the first time Mrs. Mills had been away at night, but always before I had known she was with relatives," he explained.

"Next morning I arose and Mrs. Mills still was away," he testified. "I went to the church and there I saw Mrs. Hall."

"She said: 'Did you have any sickness at your home last night?' And I said: 'No, but my wife did not come home.'"

"She said: 'Neither did my husband.' Then I said: 'Maybe they eloped.' I don't know why I said it, but it just came into my head and I don't know why."

"She shook her head and said: 'No, they are dead or they would have come home.'"

After Mills had told his story, court adjourned for the noon recess.

Confirm's Pig Woman's Story

The first corroboration of the story of "the pig woman," on which the state hopes to punish those alleged to be guilty of the famous Hall-Mills murder, was produced in court today—four years after the first telling of the "pig woman's story."

The state produced Robert Earle, of New Brunswick, N. J. He testified that, on the night of Sept. 14, 1922, he and a girl, whose name has not been revealed, were at the Phillips farm and that he saw Mrs. Jane Gibson, "the pig woman," there, riding her mule.

2 Killed By Storm In Arizona

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 16.—A terrific rain and wind storm swept the Salt river valley Sunday, taking a toll of two lives and causing widespread damage to property.

Several homes were unroofed, and many small buildings were wrecked by the high winds.

Raymond Andrew was killed by lightning, and William F. ce was electrocuted while repairing a transformer during the storm.

MOVIE STUDIO DESTROYED BY MYSTERY FIRE

Hint Incendiarism in Connection with Burning Of Landmark

(By United Press)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 16.—Believed of incendiary origin, a fire, which destroyed the Century film studio, famous Hollywood landmark, was being investigated today by authorities.

According to police, an unidentified woman, who claimed her daughter had been wronged in the movie plant, was known to have attempted to set fire to the studio a week ago.

The entire plant, covering several acres, was leveled by the flames, at an estimated loss of $400,000. Four firemen and a studio electrician received slight injuries.

The owners, Abe and Julius Stern, are said to be in Europe. Thousands of persons from the movie colony turned out to witness the spectacular blaze, which broke out late Sunday and raged for several hours.

Half a dozen screen producers rushed companies to the blaze to get fire scenes for their productions, and thousands of feet of film were taken while the studio was burning down. Several well-known actors joined the fire-fighting squad, as cameras recorded the action.

STATE LEGION IN ANNUAL MEETING

SUSANVILLE, Calif., Aug. 16.—With registrations well under way, indications were apparent today that the Susanville convention of the American Legion posts of California will break all attendance records.

Legionnaires began gathering Sunday and the numbers had swelled sufficiently by afternoon to allow the convention of the 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux, the fun society, to get under way.

Commander Allen E. Bixby, of Pasadena, was among the day's arrivals. He praised Susanville and Thomas Tucker post, 204, for its manner in handling reception and housing of the visiting Legionnaires.

Dr. John Slavich, Oakland, and Irwin T. Quinn, Eureka, were regarded as certain candidates for department commanders. The convention program was to get under way today.

Gain In World's Wheat Crop Seen

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—A world wheat production, approximately as large as last year's, with demand stronger, was forecast by the agricultural department today. Estimates and forecasts for production in 21 countries of the northern hemisphere indicate a production of 2,351,000,000 bushels compared with 2,320,000,000 last year.

FIND NOTHING BUT TAR IN 'KITCHENER' COFFIN, REPORT

(By United Press)

LONDON, Aug. 16.—The home office today said the so-called "Kitchener coffin," brought to England from Norway by Frank Power, an unofficial investigator, was apparently new and obviously had never contained human remains.

The casket, alleged to contain the body of Field Marshal Lord Kitchener, who was shot at sea during the war, was secretly opened today, the United Press was reliably informed, by a coroner's jury, which permitted the contents to be examined

DEATH TOLL IN TRAGEDIES REACHES 19

Automobiles Kill Nine in States of Pacific Coast During Week-end Period

THREE ARE DROWNED

Reports Indicate Peak of Beach and River Fatalities of Summer Is Past

(By United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16.—Nineteen persons were dead today as the result of traffic accidents in California, Washington and Oregon over the week-end.

It was an average toll, with injuries slightly below the usual summer-time total. Fifty, only a few of which were believed probably fatal, were reported.

Automobiles brought death to nine of the 19. Only three were drowned, indicating that the peak of beach and river fatalities has passed.

Street cars, seldom contributing to the death columns, caused two fatalities.

Two men, dead from gun wounds, were believed by police to have been murdered.

Three suicides were reported. Death reports, showing 14 fatalities in California, three in Washington and two in Oregon, were collected by the United Press as follows:

California

San Diego—Mrs. M. A. Booker, skull fractured when struck by street car.

Culver City—Kels Snyder, skull fractured in automobile accident.

Alhambra—Carl Deshane, suicide.

Los Angeles—Kelly Holspaw, skull fractured by automobile.

Beach—Roy Miramonte, drowned.

San Francisco—George Holder, 3, run down by milk truck.

Fred Sixtus, policeman, run down by taxicab.

King City—William I. Bray, San Francisco, and Otto A. Schaeffer, Salinas, automobile went over embankment.

Los Gatos—Harry Warner, San Jose, automobile went over 75-foot embankment.

San Jose—Samuel Holmberg, Santa Barbara, motorcycle ran into automobile. Peter Cirro, killed in supposed run war.

Richmond—Joseph Milos, Los Angeles, automobile hit telephone pole.

Fairfield—Shiro Tomoyeda, 26, Japanese, shot in quarrel over woman.

Washington

Ridgefield—Harold Butler, 17, Butte, Mont., drowned East Fork Lewis river.

Yakima—Jack Jaeger, 4, drowned in mill pond.

Helen Wills Leaves For Berkeley

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Helen Wills, forced by illness to withdraw from the national tennis championships and leave the way open to a new 1926 champion, left New York this afternoon for her home in Berkeley, Calif.

Mrs. Richard Wightman, with whom she was to have played in the doubles of the national championships, was at the train to bid Miss Wills and her mother goodbye.

"We will play together next year, anyway, won't we?" Miss Wills called to Mrs. Wightman, as she passed through the gates to her train.

"Next year and the next 50 years," Mrs. Wightman called back.

$25,000 GIVEN HUSBAND FOR LOSS OF WIFE

Man Entitled to Damages, Says Court, Providing He Can Collect

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16.—Superior Judge F. C. Valentine has decided that Robert Markey, St. Louis realtor, is entitled to $25,000 damages for the loss of his wife, providing he can collect it.

Markey was awarded a judgment of that amount against John A. Ewnis, former manager of the Savoy hotel here, who, according to testimony, fled to Mexico with the St. Louis man's wife, Edythe L. Markey.

"I do not mean by this judgment to find that $25,000 measures the value of a man's wife," Judge Valentine said. "I believe this defendant to have been shamefully treated, but unfortunately no court can repair the damage done."

"All we can do is to award a money judgment and it appears that even that may be difficult to realize on."

According to testimony, Mrs. Markey came here in August, 1923, stopped at Ewnis' hotel, and within two weeks of her arrival wrote her husband she would not return. Markey came here subsequently and learned his wife had become infatuated with the hotel man, and fled to Mexico with him, it was testified.

U. S. GUNBOAT IS IN GRAVE DANGER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The U. S. gunboat Asheville, of the Asiatic fleet, with 175 officers and men, is in "serious and immediate danger" in Nauru harbor, near Poochow, China, apparently from a terrific typhoon, according to a relayed message to the navy department.

The message was picked up by the U. S. shipping board vessel President Hayes and relayed to Washington by the American consul at Hongkong.

The Japanese vessel Manpasan Maru is standing by the Asheville, "until the weather changes and moderates," when it proposes to go to the gunboat's assistance, the message said. The reference to weather moderation led navy men to believe that an extensive hurricane was in progress at this harbor, which is a short distance north of the important city of Poochow.

150 ACCUSED OF PLOT HELD IN SAN DIEGO

Former Mexican Secretary Of War and Confederates Behind County Jail Bars

SEIZE WAR EQUIPMENT

American Agents Capture Armored Car, Guns and Ammunition Near Border

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 6.—Seizure of four more men was reported today as federal authorities launched an investigation of an alleged widespread revolutionary plot against Mexico, following the arrest late yesterday of nearly 150 men near Dulzura, three miles from the Mexican border.

(By United Press)

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 16.—Facing charges of plotting a revolution in Mexico, 150 men, headed by Gen. Enrique Estrada, former Mexican secretary of war, were in the county jail here today, as the result of a widespread week-end roundup.

A heavily armored car, guns, ammunition and other equipment, to be used in the proposed descent on towns below the border, were included in the loot taken.

Along with General Estrada, his chief of staff, Gen. Aurelio Sepulveda, and Earle C. Parker, local hardware and arms dealer, also were captured.

Nabbed by U. S. Agents

The captives were effected by agents of the U. S. department of justice, aided by other federal and city and county officers. General Estrada and his staff were taken at Dulzura, a town near the border, which had been designated as the mobilization point.

Included in the war-making material taken were an armored truck, weighing nearly six tons, and heavily sheathed in bullet-proof steel; two 10-ton trucks loaded with rifles, machine-guns and ammunition, and trucks for transporting the men and other supplies.

As the Mexicans were rounded up and brought into San Diego, they filled the county jail to overflowing before half the prisoners had been incarcerated. The remainder was taken to the marine base and held in barracks there.

Leader of Former Revolt

Estrada was a leader of the De la Huerta revolution some years ago and at one time was secretary of war, Sepulveda, a Los Angeles resident for the last two years, was a well known Mexican army officer at one time.

Beside Parker, J. T. Degman, of Culver City, Calif., was another American captured.

The plotters will be charged with leading and joining in an armed expedition against a government friendly to the United States, in violation of neutrality laws, according to A. A. Hopkins, department of justice agent here.

Guns Stored at Wilmington

U. S. department of justice officials revealed that the purported expedition was thwarted through the tracing of shipments of rifles, machine-guns and ammunition to Wilmington, where the munitions were placed in storage. The munitions were ordered by Earle C. Parker, San Diego hardware dealer, authorities declared.

When the supplies of guns and ammunition were removed from the storehouse, federal men trailed the motor trucks in which the supplies were transported, to Capistrano. There the federal officers were joined by San Diego county officials, who had been in waiting for three days.

Lt. Gonzales, commandant of the Tia Juana garrison, and Mayor Federico Palacios, of Tia Juana, were reported on their way to San Diego.

Justice of the Peace
Santa Ana Township

Resident Orange County
33 years

Resident Santa Ana 20 years

Practicing Lawyer 14 years

I believe in the enforcement of all laws so long as they remain on the Statute Books.
I do not believe in fixed schedules of punishment. Each case should be considered according to evidence and circumstances and judgment rendered accordingly.
I believe the people are entitled to the benefit of the SMALL CLAIMS COURT (Poor Man's Court). It is the law and should be applied and enforced equally with other laws.
Santa Ana Justice's Court is one of the busiest Justice's Courts in the State, handling large numbers of civil and criminal cases, practically all civil cases involving amounts up to $300.00, all misdemeanor criminal cases, and preliminary examination in all felony cases. The same questions of fact and law arise as in the Superior Court and to decide these cases justly, requires the same degree of skill and legal training as in the Superior Court.
I am the only LAWYER candidate for this position. I am a Graduate of the University of Southern California and of the U. S. C. College of Law. Have practiced law in Santa Ana 14 years.
I have no criticism to make of the character or integrity of my opponents, but I believe that by reason of education, training and experience I am better qualified for the position.

Doctor Tells About His Experiences Among Savage Tribes

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—To Dr. C. H. Parker there's nothing so very humorous in the supposedly funny pictures one occasionally sees of a missionary or a castaway sailor about to be eaten up by cannibals. He had such an experience himself once and he says he's prepared to go all the way to the cannibals—except possibly to the cannibals.

Dr. Parker probably knows more about the South Sea Islands than any other white man living. For 21 years, he has lived in that part of the world, and now, after a short visit in this country, he and his wife are going back to die there, when their time comes.

Loma Linda Graduate
The doctor is a graduate of the Seventh Day Adventists' College of Medical Evangelists, at Loma Linda, Calif.

The College of Medical Evangelists argues like this:
A South Sea island cannibal falls sick. The other cannibals, untrained in medicine, don't know what to do for him.

Along comes a good doctor and cures him.

The cannibals, presumably, are grateful. At any rate, they have sense enough not to kill and eat their doctor. He's the only one they've got and nobody knows how soon somebody else will need to be cured by him.

Thus the missionary—the doctor turns out to be a missionary—gains time enough to convert his patients.

That's the way Dr. Parker worked it.

In his many years in the South Sea Islands, he had a great many tight squeaks for his life, but the tightest, he says, was three decades and a twelve-month ago.

The native was even more cannibalistic than they are today. They still entertain a great fondness for "long pig," which is cannibalism for "human flesh."

But most of the natives now have learned that it is simply impossible to eat one's doctor and have him too. But the tribe that captured this missionary didn't realize that at first.

They pounced on the doctor as a dainty morsel, produced a big kettle and began to paw their prisoner over to find out how tough he was and decide on the best way of cooking him.

"They kindled a fire under the kettle," relates Dr. Parker, "and were leading me to the sacrificial altar, preparatory to taking my life."

Saved by Medicine Kit
"But I opened my medicine kit and began applying healing salves to sores on their bodies."

Cannibals lead such a rough life and know so little about sanitation that plenty of things like infected wounds, boils, scrofula and assorted ailments are numerous among them.

"When they learned the virtue in my medicine," adds the doctor, "they changed their minds about eating me. I stayed with them a long time and taught them the gospel."

The doctor is fluent in 16 New Guinea, New Hebrides and Solomon Island dialects and has reduced some of them to writing.

He's an adopted member of several tribes.

CAR IS RECOVERED IN PHOENIX, ARIZ.

Sheriff Sam Jernigan today announced the recovery, in Phoenix, Ariz., of an automobile owned by J. F. Clark, Brea, which was stolen Friday from Newport Beach.

Two boys, one 12 the other 14, are in the custody of Arizona officers and are being held on a charge of stealing the machine.

According to a telegram received by Jernigan today from Chief of Police George O. Briscoe, of Phoenix, the two boys also confessed to robbing a store in Newport Beach.

Officers here are at a loss to understand the confession, they said, inasmuch as no report of a burglary has been made to the sheriff's office.

The boys are thought to be Long Beach youths.

SEVEN 50-MILE SPEEDERS FACE TERMS IN JAIL

Seven motorists were arrested by Orange county's squad of state traffic officers over the week-end on charges of speeding 50 miles an hour or faster, and the seven are scheduled, if Justice Morrison continues his policy, to receive jail sentences when they appear next Friday morning with their speed tickets in Morrison's court. Those arrested include: Hunter L. Burge, Los Angeles, speeding near El Toro at 51 miles an hour, arrested by Officer Sawyer; C. H. Wright, Los Angeles, speeding 55 miles an hour on the Irvine boulevard at 55 miles an hour; H. B. Hobson, Los Angeles, speeding near El Toro, at 50 miles an hour, arrested by Officer Aldrich; E. A. Bowen, Los Angeles, 60 miles; George H. Crighton, Los Angeles, speeding on the Irvine boulevard at 55 miles an hour, and James J. Cline, speeding 52 miles an hour. Cline also is from Los Angeles and was arrested by Officer Peterkin.

Capt. Henry C. Meehan said that several other unusually fast drivers also were arrested, but tickets for them had not, as yet, been turned into his office.

THREE ARE JAILED AFTER MAD CHASE

One man was arrested on a charge of reckless driving and two others were arrested on drunk charges on the Irvine boulevard yesterday afternoon by State Traffic Officers Greer and Yoder. The three men were lodged in the county jail.

According to the officers, E. Dyson, 1103 East Twelfth street, Los Angeles, was speeding 60 miles an hour through heavy Sunday traffic and was driving on the left side of the road. In the machine with him were Walter L. Grace, 33, 913 Hemlock street, Los Angeles, and R. Ridley, 44, 761 Coulter street, Los Angeles. Both were drunk, the officers charged.

The arrests were made after a mad dash by the officers through the traffic and after the Dyson car had left the road and plowed into a bean patch, it was said.

The three men are expected to appear late today in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court.

Getting Ready For School and College

With young men getting ready for college, and their younger brothers choosing clothes for high school and grammar school—our broad displays of smart new Fall clothes becomes exceptionally interesting.

Here are styles of approved correctness among those who know what's right.

LEFT—Boys' single breasted suit with one long, one golf pants and vest. Two-button model in the new Blues, Grays and Browns, for Fall, $13.50 to $22.50.

LEFT CENTER—The young man saying goodbye is wearing one of the new HUFF top-coats. Being a university man, he dresses in cosmopolitan fashion. $25 up. His hat is a new light-weight snap-brim with plain band, $5-$6.

RIGHT CENTER—Double-breasted suits are very popular and you see a boy wearing one with golf knickers—they also have an extra pair of long pants. The patterns are very new—$16.50-$18.

RIGHT—Manly youthfulness is emphasized in the Huff HI suits for the well-dressed high school boy. These come in two-button English as well as double-breasted models, with two pairs of long trousers—$22.50.

Our Greatest Gas Range Value

This is THE gas range value of Santa Ana, and we doubt if it has even been equalled elsewhere.

A genuine Occidental gas range with cast-iron oven bottom, heavy Armco iron body, white oven and broiler door fronts, white splashers, drip pan and back rail.

A range reduced so far below regular that the $33.75 price is a sensation.

TWO ARRESTED AFTER ALLEGED PISTOL SCRAPE

Following an alleged shooting scrape at Stanton, at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, in which a woman was slightly wounded, two men were arrested and are in the county jail, one charged with assault with a deadly weapon and the other as a material witness in the case.

Guadalupe Perez, 35, a Mexican woman, was shot in a finger of the left hand, when she is alleged to have tussled with Ruben Jurodo, 56, while Jurodo it is said, was firing at Nicholas Hernandez, 22, also a Mexican. Hernandez is being held as a witness in the case.

Officers reported that the shooting occurred after a family row, in which Jurodo accused Hernandez with paying too much attention to a young girl of whom he is a relative.

Jurodo probably will be arraigned today in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court.

The woman was not badly hurt. Officers Adams, Yoder, Elliott and Smith, of the sheriff's office, arrested Jurodo.

Clothing Stolen From S. A. Home

Thieves stole a woman's dress, a set of brown furs and a complete set of baby clothes from the home of W. H. Price, 2012 Orange avenue, last night, according to a report filed today with the sheriff's office.

Dan Adams, deputy sheriff, is investigating the burglary.

No one was at home at the time of the theft, it was reported.

DOG QUESTION DRAWS OPINION OF CANDIDATES

"Are you in favor of the dog-vaccination ordinance?"

This question was put to all candidates for county office by Mrs. Barbara Brooks, who has been leading the fight against the ordinance. Mrs. Brooks states that she went to or called each candidate, told him she was seeking information for publication and put the question to him. The following statement was then prepared by Mrs. Brooks and today was turned over to newspapers of the county:

Securing the opinions, for publication, of the candidates who go before the people for approval on August 31st, upon the subject of compulsory medical laws, which is of such widespread interest and discussion in all parts of the county in connection with the compulsory dog-vaccinating ordinance, has been rather less exciting than otherwise because of the gratifying fact that our candidates, in monotonous number, share the opinion of the general public, and are opposed to compulsory medical treatment, for people and animals alike, and the majority of them are quite willing that their views, to this effect, shall be publicly known.

Only two men, of the entire number interviewed, expressed themselves in favor of compulsory inoculation, and one of these refused quite positively to be quoted as favoring it.

All of the candidates listed as opposing compulsory vaccination for people or for animals, as required by the dog-vaccinating ordinance, wish to be quoted, at the same time, as being in favor of the following compulsory health safe-guards and confident that the enforcement of these regulations are sufficient for the control of epidemics without resorting to compulsory vaccination:

No. 1. Strict compulsory sanitation.

No. 2. Compulsory quarantine and isolation of cases of contagious disease, including suspected cases of alleged rabies in animals.

No. 3. Voluntary vaccination, where the individual considers vaccination a protection to himself or his animal against disease.

The consensus of opinions, is, also, that where vaccination is ordered as a public health measure, it should be done free of charge.

The frankness of these candidates, who are fearless enough to publicly proclaim their views before the election, will meet with the commendation of the people, especially those candidates seeking official positions having no connection with the making of laws.

With those seeking supervisory office, the case is different, and the voters have the right to demand from these men an expression of their views upon such subjects.

The prospective supervisors appear to realize this, and in no case, has there been any reluctance displayed regarding an expression of opinion.

The views of candidates are as follows:

For Supervisor (Fifth District) Howard Wassum: Against compulsory vaccination. Thinks dog-vaccinating ordinance, unconstitutional and should be repealed. Will vote for repeal.

Abas Johnson: Opposed to compulsory vaccination and in favor of thorough investigation before passage of such laws. Will vote to repeal. Objects to manner in which ordinance has been enforced, also.

S. W. Stanley: Opposed to compulsory vaccination. Will vote to repeal ordinance.

Harry Warner: Could not be reached.

George Jeffrey: Voted for compulsory dog-vaccination ordinance, and voted again to amend, but refused to repeal it.

For Supervisor (Second District) Leonard Charr: Opposed to compulsory inoculation. Is dog breeder and exhibitor. Considers ordinance violation of constitutional rights. Will vote to repeal. Says he knows how unpopular ordinance is from talking with people in his district.

Sterling Price: Opposed to compulsory vaccination. Disapproves of manner of enforcing the ordinance, also. Will vote to repeal.

J. F. McKinney: Opposed to compulsory vaccination for people or animals.

John Mitchell: Opposed to compulsory vaccination. Knows present ordinance is unpopular with people in his district. If elected, will carry out wishes of the people.

For Supervisor (Fourth District) Cal Lester: Against compulsory vaccination in any form. Signed petition and will vote for repeal of ordinance as unnecessary and unconstitutional. Knows how unpopular ordinance is from talking with people in his district.

Willard Smith: Voted for the compulsory dog-vaccinating ordinance and voted again to amend, but refused to repeal it.

For County Treasurer J. C. Joplin: Opposed to compulsory vaccination. Doesn't favor tying or confining ranch dogs, either. Thinks ordinance should be repealed.

J. E. Livesey: Says he declines to be quoted on any subject before the election.

Horace Fine: Could not be reached.

For Sheriff C. E. Jackson: Not in favor of compulsory vaccination laws for people or animals.

Sam Jerinigan: Opposed to compulsory vaccination for people or animals.

For Assessor James Sleeper: Declines to be quoted. Prefers to be left out of the controversy.

Harry Crooke: Much opposed to compulsory vaccination laws for both people or animals. Says ordinance is very unpopular in Fullerton and in that part of the county and should be repealed.

For Auditor W. C. Jerome: Declines to be quoted. Says subject has nothing to do with the work of the auditor's office.

George Richardson: Declines to be quoted on the subject at present.

For District Attorney Z. B. West Jr.: Declines to be quoted.

C. N. Mozley: Says he doesn't know anything at all about the subject of vaccination.

For Superior Judge Alex P. Nelson: Opposed to compulsory vaccination and all compulsory medical treatment for people or animals.

H. G. Ames: Could not be reached.

Judge Thomas: No announcement.

Judge E. J. Marks: Strongly in favor of compulsory vaccination for people.

James L. Allen: No announcement.

Justice of the Peace Kenneth Morrison: Not in favor of compulsory medical legislation. Thinks vaccination should be voluntary for people and with consent of owner for dogs.

James Metzgar: Declines to be quoted upon the subject.

Morris Cain: Opposed to compulsory vaccination. Consider ordinance unconstitutional because it fails to include other animals as well as dogs. Also unfair and useless in county as city is exempt from vaccination.

Frank Pinkerton: Appeared with Dr. Presson before city council as vaccine salesman to recommend passage of ordinance.

For State Assembly S. C. Hartman: Not in favor of compulsory vaccination. Not familiar with provisions of the ordinance.

Dr. C. D. Ball: "When rabies is prevalent, dogs should be muzzled or held in leash." "Regarding small-pox and vaccination, I am a firm advocate for vaccination, and for quarantine, but I feel that any adult person should have the privilege of deciding for himself whether or not he be vaccinated. It is one of the rights of an American citizen."

Police News

Jean Rosales, 26, and S. Mesa, 24, charged with being drunk, were brought to the Orange county jail, yesterday, from Brea, where they were arrested.

George M. Henson, Santa Ana, route No. 2, reported to the sheriff's office today the theft, Saturday, of his automobile.

Thieves who stole a truck owned by the Dickey-Baggerly Furniture company here, abandoned it, when it ran off the road at the end of Fairmont avenue, Saturday, according to a report filed with the city police. The car was recovered by officers and returned to the owners. The truck was stolen from a place where it was parked near Main street and Santa Clara avenue.

To serve five days in jail on a charge of speeding, G. E. Bishop, 31, 4532 Amber Place, Los Angeles, entered the Orange county jail last night as a prisoner.

Bishop was arrested several days ago on a charge of speeding 54 miles an hour. He was sentenced in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court.

Court Notes

Wife Asks Divorce

Mrs. Dorothy E. Wilson, represented by Attorneys Allen and Lyon, of Fullerton, today applied for superior court for a divorce from Loyola A. Wilson. Non-support was charged as a basis for suit. The Wilsons were married in San Bernardino, in 1923, and separated in 1925. Mrs. Wilson seeks custody of their daughter, aged 3.

Equipment Return Asked

Return of drilling equipment, alleged to have been unlawfully removed by the defendant from property of the plaintiff, was demanded today in a suit filed in superior court by the First National bank of Santa Ana, against Cora Nelson. The property was removed August 10, 11 and 12, it is stated in the papers on file. Judgment for the restitution of the equipment, or its cash equivalent, $350, together with $300 damages, is asked. Attorneys Head, Ruten and Seovel represent the bank.

CALF PROVES POOR COMPANY ON AUTO RIDE

One of the best ways to land a berth in the Orange county jail is to be caught riding over county roads at 3 o'clock in the morning with a calf in your automobile.

This was demonstrated early today, when Deputy Sheriffs G. E. McClellan and Jack Combs arrested Michael Matchekoff, 50, Los Angeles, near Stanton, as Matchekoff was driving along a deserted road.

Officers brought the man to the county jail when he could not prove ownership of the calf. He is booked in the jail on suspicion of cattle thieving.

Sheriff's officers have been searching for the last several days for cattle thieves, who stole three calves from an Orange county ranch several days ago.

Matchekoff claims that he purchased the calf and can produce a bill of sale from Burbank, where he is alleged to have bought the animal. To clear himself, he sent the following, today, to a relative:

"Pete, git some bill of sale from Burbank for that calf heffer. Bring to Santa Ana. I am in jail for that calf."

Officers were to arraign the man today on a charge of cattle theft, it was said. In the meantime, the animal is being cared for in the county garage.

McClellan said that there had been no report made to the sheriff's office during the last 24 hours relative to the theft of the animal.

NEW RESIDENTS LIKE SANTA ANA

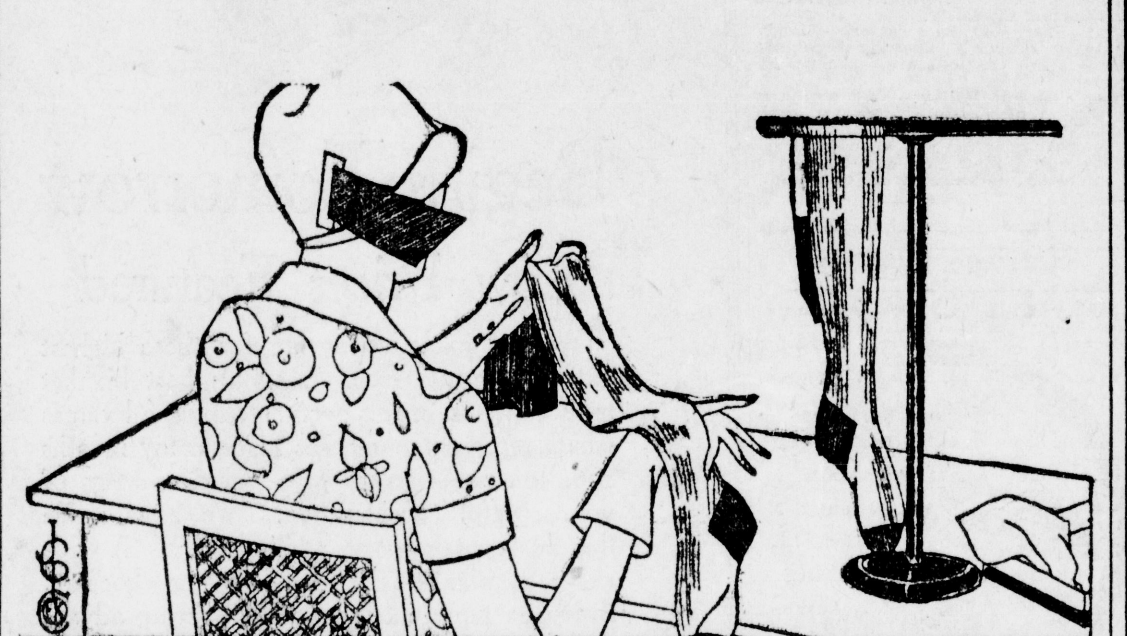

Listed among new residents in the city are Mr. and Mrs. Dan F. Hinkley, until recently of Gotherburg, Neb. Hinkley, who has been engaged in the drug business for the last 15 years, has taken over the company, 1301 North Main street, business of the Haddon-Jean Drug The Hinkleys are now guests in Hotel Santa Ana.

The Hinkleys selected Santa Ana as their future home after visiting a score of Southern California communities, including Long Beach, Pasadena, Glendale, Pomona, Riverside, Hollywood, San Diego and other cities.

"We were so favorably impressed with the educational opportunities offered here as well as with the wholesome atmosphere of the community, that we decided that this would be the ideal place to raise our children," Mrs. Hinkley commented, voicing her delight with Santa Ana.

Pleasant Dinner Party Is Planned to Honor Visiting Sisters

SATURDAY was made a gala occasion in the F. D. Drake home at 1059 West Sixth street, for a reunion of sisters and their families and hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Drake, extended a lavish hospitality to the members of the house party, entertaining with a dinner party in the evening.

Mrs. Drake's sister, Mrs. Herman Ross and two daughters, the Misses Martha and Mary Margaret Ross, arrived in the morning hours, from Alexandria, Ind., for a visit in the home and with the mother of Mrs. Ross, Mrs. D. C. Hupp.

At the same time, the youngest of the sisterly trio, Mrs. John Bolles arrived, with Mr. Bolles, from the Big Bear camp which they recently sold, and remained in Santa Ana for a visit ere continuing on their way to the new home which they will establish in Minnesota. Mrs. Bolles and Mrs. Ross had not seen each other for sixteen years, so their meeting was a joyful one.

In honor of the guest group, Mr. and Mrs. Drake planned a very pleasant evening. Dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock, at a table brilliant with dahlias and asters in the rich hues of mid-summer. Seated to enjoy the delicious menu, were the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Drake, and the daughter of the home, Miss Helen Drake, Mrs. D. C. Hupp, mother of the trio of sisters, Mr. and Mrs. John Bolles, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hupp, Mrs. Ross, Miss Martha Ross, Miss Mary Margaret Ross, and Messrs. Mack Ford and Paul Nelson.

Mr. and Mrs. Bolles remained until this morning when they took their departure for Minnesota. Mrs. Ross and the Misses Ross will remain for an extended visit with the Drakes and Mrs. Hupp, who are planning many pleasant outings and trips over the Southland for their entertainment.

Little Maid Arrives To Gladden Home

There is much rejoicing in the home of Mrs. Clara McCord, 610 Orange avenue, over the arrival Saturday, August 14, of Mrs. McCord's first grandchild, wee Helen Bernice Livingston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Livingston.

Mrs. Livingston will be remembered by a host of friends as Miss Besse McCord, popular teacher of domestic science in the Frances Willard junior high school. She and Mr. Livingston make their home in San Francisco, but she has been spending the summer with her mother, so it was in her grandmother's home that little Miss Helen Bernice made her bow Saturday.

MUSIC RECITAL

Constance Schnebly presented a group of her piano students Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when she held her monthly "playing class" at the home of Mrs. W. F. Rurup, 206 East Washington avenue.

These class recitals, given at the homes of the different pupils, are for the purpose of affording an opportunity to the pupils to learn to play, without confusion, on a different piano, from the one they are accustomed to, and to gain ease in playing before the public. Criticism of the parents is invited and ideas exchanged among the pupils.

A decided improvement in the pupils' work is noted at each recital and a pleasant rivalry for progress is noticeable.

The opening number on the Saturday program was a duet by Barbara and Louise Rurup, followed by a vocal solo by Calla Pospesil who played her own accompaniment. Other numbers were piano solos, a duet by Helen and Roland Goetsch, and a vocal solo by Ellen Margarita Schnebly. At the close of the recital, refreshments were served by Mrs. Rurup.

Those taking part were Shelley Horton, Jennie Pospesil, Barbara Rurup, Maxine Cook, Roland Goetsch, Calla Pospesil, Helen Goetsch, Vada Stiglen, Louise Rurup and Ellen Margarita Schnebly.

W. C. T. U.

Much importance attached to the latest meeting of the W.C.T.U. since officers for the coming year were to be elected and the annual reports presented by the various retiring officers and committee heads.

Mrs. J. H. Nicholson was the union's choice for president, and will so officiate during the coming year. Associated with her will be Mrs. W. B. Tedford, first vice-president; Mrs. Elizabeth Clark, second vice president; Mrs. Mina Tidball, corresponding secretary; Miss Jessie Miller, recording secretary; Mrs. Mary Wager, assistant recording secretary; Mrs. Lenore Ward, treasurer.

Friday, September 3, was announced as the date of the county W.C.T.U. convention, which will be held in the Fullerton First Methodist church, beginning at 10 o'clock a. m. At mid-day, the Fullerton W.C.T.U. members will serve dinner.

OSTRICH FEATHERS RETURN TO DAME FASHION'S FAVOR

Paris, August, 1926.

Dearest Cousin: (Writes vivacious Germaine of Paris to her little American cousin.)

Thanks for your very kind letter and the pin you sent me. It is lovelier than anything I have seen here, and the very thing for my newest hat.

While at Deauville and since I have returned to Paris, it has occurred to me that no hat, large or small, is complete without its feathers. Reboux has hats trimmed with a single jewel brooches that cost from 5 to 600,000 francs.

Speaking of hats—and I'm apparently always on the subject of clothes or beaux—I must tell you that our milliners are trying to bring back ostrich feathers.

Just the mere mention of them recalls a picture of those over-stuffed hats of the late nineties and early twentieth century, and it seems ridiculous to think that we who have learned to wear the small untrimmed hat with such distinction should ever want to load up our heads again.

But there is no accounting for feminine styles. And they are using ostrich so cleverly, it may quite possibly become the vogue again. Instead of using it on hats, they are making ostrich boas in shades to match the small felt or silk hat, or to make a pleasing contrast with it. The prettiest ones I have seen are in light colors. I'm sending you a photograph of the most attractive one I saw. It is of a fairly deep, but very soft and subdued rose color, and it is worn with a pink felt hat several shades lighter.

More and More it occurs to me that the most charming effects are achieved through extreme simplicity. A dress may be effectively simple, however, only when made of the best material and cut with a faultless line. By these two signs you recognize the work of the really first-class houses.

My poor friend Jimmy is still in the hospital, though he is a little better. His family, that is, his mother and his sister, are now here, and though they were very polite to mother and me when we saw Jimmy yesterday, I felt they were really none too friendly toward us.

Even bandaged, with some broken bones, and all sorts of things wrong, Jimmy manages to be his amusing self, and makes such ridiculous comments to his nurse, who is such a serious woman, that his sick room has none of the funeral air you might expect.

His sister and mother dress marvelously—yet there is something about their attire which lacks individuality. The sister, who is very blonde, was dressed in a georgette frock almost the color of her hair, with the most subtle cut, and strangely enough she was wearing an ostrich boa of a very light brown with it. Apparently she is sponsoring the ostrich fad.

Jacques is his charming self, as devoted as I could wish. Since Jimmy is in the hospital, he is not being bothered with much competition—and all's well.

Please give my love to my aunt and uncle, and keep much for your own dear self.

Affectionately,

GERMAINE.

WOMAN COULD NOT SLEEP

Her Mother-in-Law Knew A Remedy

Mrs. Belle Thompson, of Georgia, was in a very weak and run-down condition for four years. She had great difficulty in getting to sleep at night and even then did not sleep soundly. She would wake up again and again. Besides this her appetite was poor. "My mother told me on my feet to care for my children and I do most of my work. I feel it my duty to let you know how both of the medicines have helped me."—Mrs. Belle Thompson, R. 2, Rossville, Georgia.

"My Favorite Flower"

Saturday's story on the social page of "My Favorite Flower," contributed by Mrs. Cora Stephenson, was the last of a symposium offered by various well-known Santa Ana women.

The articles have created a great deal of interest and Miss Louise Stephenson, who originated the idea, has been besieged with requests that it continue. To make this possible, a number of readers would have to send in an article stating their preference in flowers. We believe this will be done, and to strengthen this belief, this morning's mail yielded a contribution in verse form, which we take pleasure in printing as the forerunner of many more interesting letters.

Everyone loves flowers, and while we may love them all, there are some for which we feel a special fondness. Just which are YOUR favorites and why?

My Favorite Flower

Yellow buttercups and white daisies
Charmed me in my childhood hours.
Then the Illinois woods and prairies
Gave me their choicest wild flowers.

I loved the brown, and golden sunflowers
As they did their very best
To charm those pioneer people
While they settled the middle west.

But in our own state, California
Is where the finest flowers grow
In winter, as well as the summer.
They never stop blooming, you know.

But each flower has its time of the year
To bring its beauty and its fragrance here.
So I love each flower as long as it can stay.
Like an old time friend, I love its pleasing way.

Miss Grace Ozment to Wed Santa Paulan in Late August

INVITATIONS have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ozment, 1213 North Ross street, to the wedding of their daughter, Miss Grace Esther Ozment, to Orville Taylor, on Friday evening, August 27, at 8:30 o'clock.

The ceremony will take place in the Spurgeon Memorial church with the pastor, the Rev. Moffett Rhodes, officiating. The engagement of the two young people was announced very informally in mid-July, when they disclosed the happy secret to their relatives and friends. Also Mrs. D. D. Taylor of Santa Paula, mother of the bridegroom-elect, entertained at her home in honor of the young people, and announced the pleasant betrothal news to close friends in that city.

Miss Ozment and Mr. Taylor were fellow-students at Whittier college and it was in that atmosphere of books and studies that their friendship developed into romance. Mr. Taylor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Taylor of Santa Paula.

EVOLUTION OF SHINE BUSINESS IS SURPRISING

The nasal whine of "shine" a shine, one thin dime," is not heard any more on the streets of Santa Ana. The reason? because shoe shining is not a "job" any longer, but a regular business. A few years ago when some boy grew ambitious and wanted to make money, he took an old kitchen chair, nailed it onto a soap box, bought a box of shoe blacking, cut a leg off his dad's long, red flannels and began his business career.

Five cents was the sum paid by the "dandy" of several years ago for a shine. Of course it was extravagant not to shine their own shoes, but then men of their means and positions had their reputations to uphold and they could not do it with rusty looking shoes.

When mother's or sister's shoes needed shining, the "jet black" was taken off the top shelf and little brother painted with one hand while he held his nose with the other. Today, the bootblack stand is the shining parlor, the big, comfortable, leather and upholstered chairs, mirrors all around the room, up-to-date magazines and ash trays within easy reach. The proprietor does not have to accost his prospective customer, for he is too busy shining the shoes of those who come of their own initiative.

Women Were Hesitant

The owner of one of the largest parlors in Santa Ana said that he had been here 14 years. For a long time women were hesitant about coming into the shop when there were several men already in the chairs, he said, but now he has as many patrons among the women as the men. They do not feel backward any more about entering barber and shoe shining shops, which formerly were occupied only by men.

A few years ago, the only colors called for were black and brown. Today, there are more than a dozen different shades on the shelves of the up-to-date shine shop, with as many powders and dyes, and the prices range from 15 cents to 35 for a shine. The majority of women's shoes are fancy, with two or more different colors of kid and elaborate stitching. Men's shoes also have changed. There are many different shades of brown and tan—then there are the white, white and black, white and brown, etc.

The man who has been here 14 years came to America from a foreign country. Having had to make his way, he said that he could not go to school as he desired, but he feels now that he has acquired an education that he could not have obtained any other way. While shining shoes during the 14 years, he has not thought only of the few cents he was going to make by his labor, but he has kept his eyes and ears open, by reason of which he has learned to speak the English language, know important topics of the day, politics and the customs and manners of the country that now is his own. Today, this man can talk intelligently on almost any subject of the day and he has an unusually keen power of detection, due solely, he says, to having "listened in" on the conversations of his customers.

Recognizes Characters

He claims that he always can tell a professional or business man by his appearance, a detective by the toes of his shoes and a chorus girl by her heels. The majority of persons who come to his stand are pleasant and agreeable and like to talk. Occasionally a grouchy person comes in, "crabs" about the shine, the price, the weather and everything in general, but they are few. Some men come in and say they are in a big hurry, must catch a car and want a double-quick shine. The boy will work as fast as he can, then the man will jump from the chair, hurry out of the door, meet a friend and stop and talk half an hour.

According to one shoe shiner, most of the women who read while their shoes are being cleaned reach for the movie magazine.

All the boys in the various shining parlors agree that women were as generous with their tips as men, with perhaps the business girl in the lead. She must look properly groomed from head to foot and knows that nothing else so destroys the best appearance as shoddy looking footwear. The heels of women's shoes are run over and out of shape more so than men's because of high heels.

Church Convention Dates Announced

URBANA, Ill., Aug. 16.—Six hundred delegates, among them many outstanding religious leaders throughout the United States and Canada, will attend the International Quadrennial convention of Christian churches, in Urbana, October 29 to 31.

The Rev. S. Parks Cadman, Brooklyn, N. Y., president of the federated council of churches of Christ, will deliver the opening address.

Other speakers include Dr. Goodell, New York, national secretary of evangelism of the federated council; Rev. Dr. Samuel M. Zwemer, Mohammedan missionary; Dr. L. E. Smith, Norfolk, Va.; Fred B. Smith, New York, and Dr. Alva Martyh Kerr, Payton, O.

Screen Used In Battling Beetle

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The agriculture department has started a new and vigorous campaign to eliminate the Japanese beetle menace in the United States.

Motion picture films depicting the life and habits of the injurious insect have been distributed by the government over the entire country. It shows farmers how to spray to prevent beetle damage, the treatment of turf so as to kill grubs and the benefits of quarantine to prevent its spread. Beetles live in the soil 10 months of the year but the other two months they attack crops savagely.

PRIZE CONTEST FOR EDITORS IS ANNOUNCED

Because the editors of eastern cities who visited Orange county during the National Editorial association convention have been so lavish in their praise of this county as well as other parts of California, through which they journeyed, the entertainment committee, headed by V. D. Johnson, secretary of the Orange Chamber of Commerce, has offered a group of cash prizes for letters entitled, "My Impressions of Orange County."

In a letter to eastern editors who attended the convention, Johnson has outlined the rules of the contest as follows:

"To editors in other states who attended the N. E. A. convention in California:

"The following is a good-will, free-for-all contest for prizes of $100, $50 and $25, respectively, and Orange county wants you to enter the race.

"So splendid are the various stories, regarding the editors' trip to California, that have been printed in a number of the papers, the entertainment committee of Orange county has decided to prolong the pleasurable association through the offer of the above prizes. This is the proposition:

"To the editor writing the best story of 100 words or under, on 'My Impressions of Orange County,' we will give $100; second best, $50, and third, $25.

"Now, friend editor, is your opportunity to receive a nice little check for $100, which would come handy in defraying a portion of the expense of your trip. Another thought, if the wife came along with you! Isn't it possible that she can beat you at writing this story, after all? Get her to try it in place of you—if you should really happen to be that rare avis, a 'busy' editor.

"If you are at all interested, write me and I shall be glad to send you booklets, maps, etc., that will help refresh your memory as to the day spent in Orange county.

Political Announcement

FOR JAMES SLEEPER

James SLEEPER, one of Orange county's foremost citizens, is seeking re-election as County Assessor. SLEEPER's friends point out that he made a name for himself throughout California for the fearless and constructive manner in which he brought oil companies to time. When SLEEPER became county assessor oil companies were not assessed for their mineral rights. Those mineral rights now bring into Orange county's treasury $775,000 a year, which is $200,000 more than the county's total tax in 1910.

As a resident of this county for thirty-eight years, SLEEPER is thoroughly familiar with weather conditions on property values, which knowledge is necessary to the making of fair assessments.

SLEEPER's friends point to the fact that his work has been uniformly fair. His office has made fully 400,000 assessments, and there have been a mere handful of protests. The record is looked upon as remarkable. The principal protesting party was the Birch Oil company, which company SLEEPER fought through into the supreme court of this state and which Orange county won.

FOR HORACE FINE

Declaring that if he is elected county treasurer he would sever newspaper connections that have been in existence for many years, Horace FINE today denied foundation for rumors that he would continue in the work and devote only a portion of his time to the duties of the county office.

"Direction of the business of the county treasurer is a job within itself," the candidate commented in emphasizing his belief that a county official cannot consistently hold down two positions.

"Just consideration of the taxpayers dictates that an officer give his full time to the duties of his office, and it will be my policy always to make the funds of the county an effective source of income and at the least possible cost to those who foot the bills for county government," FINE added.

The candidate stated that he felt that his thirty-seven years of newspaper work in the county and his personal business experience had qualified him for the position he seeks.

3000 BUYERS AT L. A. EXPOSITION

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16.—More than 3000 buyers from 11 western states were here today for the chamber of commerce industrial and trade exposition.

The exposition, designed to promote Los Angeles as a market as well as tourist center, will last throughout the week.

Every branch of commercial and industrial activity in Southern California are depicted in the exhibits at the new Shrine Civic auditorium, where the trade fair is being held.

Movie stars will make personal appearances and take part in various entertainment features to be staged for the visiting purchasers, starting tonight.

Los Angeles shops and manufacturing plants were gaily decorated and Mayor George Cryer issued a proclamation designating this as "Industrial and Trade Show week."

NOTHING IS WRONG WITH MODERN GIRL

LONDON, Aug. 16.—There is nothing the matter with the modern girl. She's all right. Thus was the question settled at a recent conference of the association of headmistresses.

Miss Annie Morrison principal of the Francis Holland school, in speaking of modern girls, said:

"According to Grannie's viewpoint they are all wrong. But in spite of this I think the modern girls are delightful.

"Heads of colleges admit they never have had a better intellectual type, or one more imbued with the spirit of service.

"As far as that's concerned, Grannie no longer is content to sit placidly in the corner with her Bible and knitting, but cries aloud for betting tips and dance favors."

CAN you think of any better points upon which to weigh the qualities of a washer than those given above? Read them. In just one hour's test you can prove all these Maytag advantages and more.

During that one hour test in your own home, you can wash 50 pounds of clothes, dry weight. If you have ever timed the washing capacity of other washers, you will recognize that this is unsurpassed washing speed, particularly when you see how beautifully clean the clothes are washed in the Maytag. Even the most stubborn edge-dirt disappears without hand-rubbing.

The Maytag flushes out the dirt by soap and water action alone, made possible by the Gyrafoam principle and the peculiar shape of the tub. The most dainty garments, silks and laces are washed by this water action with hand carefulness.

MANY TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS ARE PREVENTED BY STREET STOPS

Regulation of Motor Car Progress on Arteries of Travel Is Held Effective

MORE BOULEVARD HALTS REQUESTED

Number of Crashes at Intersections Is Reduced, Is Statement by Goode

Boulevard stops, placed at intersections of the main arteries of travel in the city, have not only proved an effective agency in the regulation of traffic, but also have gone far to cut down the number of accidents, according to Stanley B. Goode, a member of the city council. In his capacity of city trustee, Goode holds the office of street commissioner.

Goode's statement is supported by official figures of the city police department, bearing on traffic accidents, which show that, since the "stops" were installed there have been but few accidents at these intersections.

Wants More Stops

The street commissioner, having satisfied himself as to the practical usefulness of the "stops," wants a new crop of black and white striped poles distributed over the city, and in sufficient number to make traffic as nearly accident proof as is possible. To that end, he has come to the city council with an additional list of "stops," to be incorporated in the city traffic ordinance. The new "stops" are embodied in an amendment to the present traffic ordinance, and passed its first reading a few weeks ago. Goode's recommendation is based on the theory that any two drivers, given enough time to think it over, will evolve some way of clearing an intersection, no matter how much traffic.

In line with the recommendations of the street commissioner, boulevard stops will be placed at all intersections of the following thoroughfares: Santa Clara, Seventeenth, Washington, Fifth, Fourth, First, Fairview, Edinger, McFadden, Flower, Broadway, Main, Grand, Bush and Bristol. Instead of posting all intersections at one time, the "stops" will be placed at different corners from time to time as deemed advisable to control traffic.

Selfish Type of Driver

Goode admits, however, that while boulevard stops have done their bit in cutting down the number of smash-ups, they have failed to deal effectively with that particular type of the road hog, who, driving in a solid procession of automobiles, hugs so close to the preceding car as to make it impossible for a motorist approaching from a side street to get into the line of main travel, much less

JOHNSON WILL MAKE 3 TALKS IN SOUTHLAND

The speech of U. S. Senator Hiram Johnson, at the West End theater, Friday evening, August 20, under auspices of the junior division of the Greater Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, will be one of three speaking engagements the senator will fill in Southern California, it was announced today.

The senator will speak Thursday evening, August 19, in the Philharmonic auditorium, Los Angeles. He will speak at the San Diego high school auditorium, Saturday evening, August 21.

The meetings are expected to be among the most important of the primary campaign. Senator Johnson will give special attention to the Boulder canyon dam project and the all-American canal, the long fight for them, and the so-called special interests opposed to them.

Movie Director's Racing Boat Dives To Bottom of Bay

NEWPORT BEACH, Aug. 16.—The heroine is still in the clutches of the villain, the hero is all wet, and a world's record contending speed boat has gone to the bottom of the sea.

It all came about when Del Lord, member of the Balboa Yacht club, director for a well known cinema comedy company, and owner and driver of the famous 151-class racing hydroplane, "Midge," cast the boat for a star part in a race picture being made on Newport bay.

Lord wanted action, so he put the hero aboard "Midge" and chased the villain around hairpin turns at nearly 40 per. One turn was cut too short. "Midge" turned over and nose-dived to the bottom under 30 feet of water. The hero, the driver, and at length, the boat were hauled out, and "Midge," so Lord says, will be in condition for the race here next month.

1500 ATTEND BROTHERHOOD ANNUAL PICNIC

More than 1500 members of the Fraternal Brotherhood lodges of Southern California attended the annual picnic in Orange county park yesterday, according to the register, in which most of those who attended wrote their names.

Supreme President W. A. Van Degrieff, Los Angeles, was the guest of honor. He spoke briefly concerning the activities of the lodge. Another visitor was the supreme secretary, R. A. Grov.

The picnicers began assembling about 10 a. m., and remained until after 8 p. m., last night, according to Mrs. W. D. Phipps, Santa Ana, chairman of the picnic committee from the Santa Ana lodges.

The program commenced at 11 a. m., with athletic contests for the children. During the noon hour, addresses were made by the national officers. A flag salute was conducted. The three team captains from Los Angeles acted as flag bearers.

The afternoon activities included contests and sports for all ages. A baseball game between a mixed team from Long Beach and Redondo Beach and a Riverside team resulted in a win for the Riverside aggregation.

The evening program started at 6 o'clock. Two Spanish dancers from Los Angeles entertained and a Charleston contest was conducted. An orchestra from Riverside played for the dancing.

Those who assisted Mrs. Phipps on the Santa Ana committee were Mr. and Mrs. L. Kling and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Marsile.

A sports committee which supervised the athletic program, was composed of D. Mills and Don Milhmine, Los Angeles.

SAM JERNIGAN FAVORS CRIME REPORT PLAN

Statewide Wire Service on Criminal by Printer Machine Would Save Money

Orange county may be included in a state-wide telegraphic crime reporting service, which has been proposed by Clarence Morrill, chief of the bureau of criminal investigation and identification. Sheriff Sam Jernigan and District Attorney A. P. Nelson have endorsed Morrill's plan and expressed a willingness to co-operate in any way possible to bring the plan into actual establishment.

In the office of sheriff, alone, in Orange county, the annual cost of telegraphing and telephoning in criminal investigations amounts to several thousand dollars. This cost would be materially reduced by the establishment of the telegraphic crime reporting service, as well as placing other counties in possession very much quicker of a report on the crime and the description of the persons wanted.

Morrill's plan, which has been under discussion for several months, calls for the establishment of a printer telegraph service connecting police and sheriff's offices of cities and counties on main line railroads and trunk highways. With this system in operation, a murder reported to police headquarters in Los Angeles from a residential district substation would be flashed at once to police chiefs and sheriffs in every city and county likely to be in the line of flight of the murderer.

Cost of installation and operation of the system would be divided between the state, city and county. If the various district attorneys, sheriffs and police chiefs succeed in obtaining appropriations from their supervisors and city councils, Morrill will ask the next session of the legislature for an appropriation to match the money so provided.

The counties where district attorneys and sheriffs have agreed to co-operate are Orange, San Bernardino, Alameda, Fresno, Imperial, Los Angeles, Merced, San Diego, San Joaquin, San Luis Obispo, San Mateo, Santa Barbara, Stanislaus, Tulare, Ventura and Yuba.

Miss Brubaker Weds Santa Rosa Football Coach

ORANGE, Aug. 16.—A romance which started while both were teachers in Santa Rosa culminated Saturday in the marriage of Miss Josephine Barbara Brubaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Brubaker, and Claire Randolph Seely, former Stanford university football player. The ceremony was read in the Community church in El Modena.

At the ceremony, at which the Rev. H. M. Moore, pastor of the East Whittier church presided, were approximately 100 guests and relatives of the bride and groom.

The places of bridesmaid and best man were occupied by Miss Emma Brubaker, sister of the bride, and Elwood Kieckering, friend of the groom. Mary Jane Brubaker, small daughter of Walter Brubaker, was flower girl.

Music for the occasion was furnished by Miss Myrtle Kraham pianist, and Miss Mary Brakett, vocalist.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents, which was attended by practically all of the wedding guests, followed the wedding ceremony.

The couple left immediately on a three week's tour of Oregon. They will make their future home in Santa Rosa, where the groom will resume his coaching duties at the Santa Rosa school.

ORANGE COUNTY IS LEADER IN PROPAGATION OF BUGS TO COMBAT CITRUS PESTS

Orange county now holds the bug propagation championship of the world. Not content with being supreme in the quality of her citrus fruits, walnuts and other crops, Orange county has added the highest honors of the insect kingdom to her ever-increasing collection of titles, large and small.

In revealing that Orange county is now holding first place in raising bugs, A. A. Brock, county horticultural commissioner, who indirectly sees that the little rascals are properly nourished during their baby months, also stated that, without the harvest of crawlers, the citrus grovers of the county would be practically helpless before the horde of pests that attack the orange and lemon trees.

Brock made public the annual report of the Orange County Pest Control association today. In past years, the citrus associations have paid for the work, which is conducted under his supervision, but this year the county supervisors decided that bug propagation was directly beneficial to the entire county and the expense of the association should not be borne entirely by a number of fruit growing organizations.

Brock explained that the association propagates cryptolemus for the purpose of waging war on the mealy bugs in the citrus groves. The cryptolemus bugs devour the mealy bugs and do not harm the citrus trees. If there are no mealy bugs for them to devour, the bugs raised in the county insect maternity home feeds on one another, having distinct cannibalistic characteristics.

During the last year, the county produced 3,192,955 beneficial insects, which sets a world's record, Brock said. The bugs were placed in 1288 orchards of the county to eat the Citrophilus mealybug.

PLAN TO DEEPEN CAPISTRANO WELL

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Aug. 16.—Myers, Robinette and Bostick are planning to go back to work in their wildest well at San Juan Capistrano, and drill deeper, according to field reports. The well is down about 3000 feet and has had some showings of gas. The syndicate believes the indications are good enough to warrant further work.

The well is situated on the state highway a short distance south of town.

Work is scheduled to start soon on the wildest well which the California Petroleum Development company will drill west of San Juan Capistrano.

L. A. to Observe 50 Years Since Railroad Came

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16.—The golden anniversary of Los Angeles' first railroad will be celebrated on Sunday, September 5, according to announcement by Arthur S. Bent, president of the chamber of commerce.

A feature of the ceremonies is to be the re-enactment of the "Wedding of the Rails," staged by pioneer residents of this city when the golden spike was driven at a point between Saugus and Lang, on September 5, 1874.

The Southern Pacific company is obtaining a locomotive and coaches used 50 years ago and it is planned to run a duplicate of the first train from Los Angeles to the scene of the celebration, as was done in September, 1876.

STATE UNIVERSITY OPENS ITS DOORS

More Students Will Go to Berkeley Than Any Other Institution, Is Report

Santa Ana students, with vacations drawing to a close, are beginning to pack their pennants and collegiate outfits in the old suitcase, preparatory to the opening of the fall term.

Already those entering the University of California have left for Berkeley. Registration was conducted at the university last week and the first class sessions were scheduled to start today. Santa Ana sent more freshmen students from the 1926 class of the high school to the University of California than to any other college.

From now on, other colleges of the state will open. Most of the opening dates are set for the middle of September.

Besides the 112 students, who early this summer requested to have their credentials sent to the colleges of their choice, there are 21 others who recently have filed applications through Miss Frances Donan, secretary to D. K. Hammond, principal of the Santa Ana high school.

Have Good Records

"The students from Santa Ana high school who are entering the state colleges have good records," Principal Hammond said today. "Each year the colleges are raising their standards and we require more from the students whom we recommend."

Late requests for credentials include those of Clifford Cole, Everett Lutz, John Lutz and Edward Blake, University of California; George Broomell, Stanford; Lynette Robb, Emily Holmes and Charles Webber, University of Southern California.

Jeanne Wilson and Temple Palmer, Oregon Agricultural college; Eleanor Guyer, University of California; Southern Branch; Rex Hoover, Louise Burkholder and Ruth Goodrich, Occidental college; Vera Patmor, Seaside hospital, Long Beach; George Decker and Raymond Dawson, Menlo School for Boys, Menlo, Calif.; Ruth Goodrich, University of Arizona; Wallace Scott, California Institute of Technology.

When Colleges Open

The opening dates of colleges in the state as disclosed in catalogs, follow:

The University of California, first of the state colleges to open, will be followed by the Southern Branch of the state university. By August 30, all applications must be filed. Examination in English subject A for undergraduates will close September 11 and general registration will be held September 13. Class sessions will begin September 14.

During the week of September 6-11, freshmen students will be received at the University of Southern California. General registration will be the last of the week and the opening is set for September 13.

FISH STORIES ARE RELATED BY SCIENTISTS

CHARLESTON, S. C., Aug. 16.—Fish tales, the kind that are sometimes taken with a little salt, are being told here, backed by proof, however, in the form of a collection of hundreds of species gathered by the schooner blossom, on its recent scientific cruise.

The blossom traveled 20,000 miles seeking specimens of pelagic littoral and island life for the Cleveland museum. Of the more than 12,000 collected, 5000 were forms of bird life and the next largest collection consisted of fish.

Headed by Capt. George F. Simmons, the expedition spent 31 months gathering the specimens. Sharks, the deadly barracuda, bonitos, tunny fish, yellow tail jacks, flying fish, needle fish, skippers, half beaks and grunts were only a few of the hunter's prey.

Among the interesting specimens brought back is the Portuguese man of war, known to science as a siphonophore. The fish possesses tentacles speckled with microscopic bombs which explode when they land on its victim, and five minute harpoons, injecting an acid poison into the flesh.

The "sea devil," or "vampire of the sea," closely resembling the stingaree of these waters, was harpooned by the blossom. It has been known to pull the weight of a vessel after running afoul of the anchor chain. One blow from one of its wings, which extend as much as 12 feet from tip to tip, can stove in a whaleboat.

Several specimens of the deadly barracuda were secured. These are the only fish the South American natives dread.

With two fangs, measuring an inch, jutting out from jaws from eight to 10 inches long, the barracuda is equipped to feed upon any flesh it meets. It is from two to four feet long as a rule and attains a maximum weight of 75 pounds.

Other fish caught included the golden dolphin, of changing hues, and the oceanic bonito, reputed to be the fastest inhabitant of the oceans. One flip of its tail is said to be sufficient to carry its torpedo-shaped body a distance of 160 feet or more.

Mid-ocean fishing did not prove very productive and most of the specimens were caught near islands in the south Atlantic.

Stage and Screen

Norma Shearer, star of "The Waning Sex," film now playing at the West Coast-Walker theater.

YOST THEATER

The most typical Charles Ray picture that the star has had for a long time, is "Sweet Adeline," the picture that opens at the Yost theater tonight. As the hero, the dreaming country boy whose far-fetched visions finally materialize into reality, Ray makes one of the finest and subtlest characterizations of his career.

Ben Wilson, who is the tenor of the village quartet bears the brunt of all the unpleasantness in the Wilson household.

As Adeline, Gertrude Olmstead is ideally cast. Her sweetness and charm pervade the picture even as the Adeline of song casts her magic spell upon the lovers-of-all-time. Others who complete the cast are Gertrude Short, Jack Clifford who plays the domineering brother, J. P. Lockney, Lillian Elliott, Ida Lewis.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

Milton Sills' greatest screen offering. This, in a line, sums up our opinion of First National's long heralded photoplay of the steel mills, "Men of Steel," which is playing at the Yost Broadway theater.

"Men of Steel," briefly, is the story of an immigrant iron mine laborer who lifts himself up by the bootstraps out of his squalor and ignorance to the heights in the steel industry. There is a beautiful love story and action and thrills and spectacles.

The creators of this picture are to be praised for the way they handled it. The story shows symbolically the making of a man along the lines of the making of steel. Steel is used as one of the most magnificent and impressive backgrounds we have ever seen.

All the spectacular phases of this great industry are used in this background and steel is tied up with the love story in a masterly manner—in a manner which makes steel as much a romance as the love story.

WEST COAST-WALKER

Ted Donner is back in the Fanchon and Marco IDEA with his agile limbs and a pleasing voice, in one of the greatest novelty acts ever produced at the West Coast-Walker. He began a three-day engagement here yesterday. The setting depicts the Beach Club with an orchestra on porch beneath colored awnings and palm trees, with the beach to one side.

A feature of the "Beach Club Idea" is the "Evolution of the Bathing Girl" from 1896 to 1926—modeling the old fashioned bathing suits up to the ultra modern! The International News Reel Service photographed this group for their news reels. Considerable research was given in all magazines for the last twenty-five years to duplicate the exact type bathing suit of that period. The parade is a riot!

Now for this clever young comedian, Ted Donner. He is in a new act that is a pip! Pretty Bobby Thomson sets up all adutter with her capering and the girls—well boys, bring your opera glasses, and that's that. Fanchon and Marco have a truly splendid offering.

"The Waning Sex," a picture starring Norma Shearer and featuring Conrad Nagel is showing at the West Coast-Walker screen.

GERMANS SINK SHIP

BERLIN, Aug. 16.—Germany, which presumably has no navy, sank a Danish sailing ship with a torpedo fired in practice by a torpedo boat in the Baltic sea. To show that no harm was meant, an effort was made after the torpedo had punctured the hull to get the disabled ship ashore with supporting cables. One cable broke and the ship sank. Question of more reparations.

County Treasurer

To the Voters of Orange County:

The primary election is August 31. Do not forget to discharge your duty by voting for the man you think best fitted for the office to which they aspire. I would appreciate your consideration and support in my ambition to serve you as treasurer. Whether or not you vote for me, we will continue to be good friends.

If I am complimented by election, I will give my undivided time and attention to the office—which means that I will sever connection with newspaper work, in which I have been engaged for 37 years. My residence of 43 years in the county and my business experience, I think, qualify me for the position I seek.

Trusting a good majority of you will remember me when you mark your ballots, I am, sincerely

ONE OF MANY TOUGH ONES COWBOYS WILL TRY TO "BREAK" AT IRVINE RANCH ROUNDUP

"Let 'er buck," yelled the cow puncher and the tough little bronc took him at his word. There were a few exciting moments of waving hat and heels and then—this.

to get a chance to cross the thoroughfare. This particular situation is found, in its greatest intensity, on holidays and summer week-ends, and the experiences already encountered this year have emphasized the need of quick relief, it was explained.

To solve this problem, Goode has under recommendation the installation of semaphore block signals at the intersections of First, Fourth and Seventeenth streets and Main street, to be operated independently of each other, and only at time of traffic congestion. In this way, motorists approaching Main street from East First on a Sunday afternoon, would have an even chance with those coming from the harbor, to take their place in the line of travel.

FACE FOREST FIRE IN RACE FOR GOLD

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 16.—How a small party of Winnipeg prospectors battled their way through flaming forests to win a 600-mile race for gold in northwestern Manitoba was related here.

J. O'Sullivan, A. J. Demers and George and Frank McClatchey were the winners. A group of Minneapolis men lost.

After their American rivals obtained a three-day start, the Manitoba party left here by railroad for Mile 239 of the Hudson Bay railway. They plunged into dense forests July 21 for a 175-mile journey to Oxford lake, which is 150 miles northeast of The Pas.

Not more than four hours' sleep was obtained each night of the overland journey.

In the midst of the trip the party was overtaken by a raging forest fire. Once the four lay flat on a rocky point for six hours overlooking a river while flames leaped over their heads.

Traveling ankle-deep in ashes of burned spruce trees, the men reached Oxford lake before the Minneapolis party. They quickly staked claims. Samples of antimony ore assayed more than 55 per cent pure metal, with 70 of gold to the ton, they reported. A vein ten feet wide was traced beneath the lake. The claims were on an island in the center of the lake.

Ocean Park Girl Is Beauty Winner

LONG BEACH, Aug. 16.—Hope Dare, 17-year-old Ocean Park beauty, was acclaimed "the most beautiful girl in Southern California," at the annual Long Beach bathing beauty tournament, Sunday.

The auburn-haired prize-winner had 278 competitors, girls from all sections of the Southland. She was awarded $500 cash and a silver cup. Martha Strang, of San Diego, was adjudged the most beautiful out-of-town girl, and Evelyn Hunt, of Culver City, the girl with the most charming personality. Jean Douglas, Ocean Park, won a cup for the most beautiful figure.

Boy Slain As He Attempts Escape

STEAMBOAT SPRINGS, Colo., Aug. 16.—The dash for liberty of two boy inmates of the state industrial school, at Golden, was blocked at Hayden, near here, today, when one of the youths was shot and killed by a storekeeper, whose stock they were ransacking, and the other was captured as he tried to start a stolen car in which the youths were traveling. Paul Roberts, 16, of Long Beach, Calif., was the youth shot. His companion was William Wall, also 16, of Denver. Both boys had been confined in the school for stealing automobiles.

Boy Is Held On Robbery Charge

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 16.—Suspected of having stolen a watch and chain from a room in the Stanley hotel, a 16-year-old boy is being held in the city jail pending his arraignment before Justice Warner. The lad is said to have been in the hands of the law before, being on probation at the present time. It is said the boy occupied a room adjoining the one entered. The arrest was made by Officer Bannister.

General registration follows on September 13 and 14. Class recitations begin September 15.

Fresh Day at Redlands. Freshman day at Redlands university has been arranged for September 13 followed by Freshman classification examination September 14 and Freshman registration September 15. General registration is to be held September 16. On September 17, class sessions begin. Students entering Pomona as freshmen are required to register September 15 and 16. Registration of upper classmen and entrance examinations will be conducted September 16. The convocation will come September 18.

Examinations for admission will be held for advanced students entering California Institute of Technology, September 17 and 18. Freshman entrance examinations will follow on September 20 and 21. The examinations for the removal of conditions will be given September 22. Freshman registration comes September 23 and general registration will be held September 24 and 25. Classroom sessions will open September 27.

At the Oregon Agricultural college, freshmen week begins on September 20, concluding with registration of freshmen and upper classmen before the opening September 27.

Stanford is the last of the major state universities to begin instruction for the fall term. The college entrance board examinations are held throughout the week of September 20-25. Lower division registration comes September 30 and general registration follows on October 1. Class sessions commence October 2.

Ventura County Papers Merged

VENTURA, Aug. 16.—Consolidation of the two largest newspapers in Ventura county into one afternoon daily was effected here today. The Morning Post printed its final edition Sunday and this afternoon its identity was merged with that of the Ventura County Star.

The Star is published by Roy Pinkerton. Under the consolidation, it will have a circulation of more than 4000.

Excavators Find Mummified Horse

CAIRO, Aug. 16.—The first mummified horse known to history has been unearthed here near Sakara pyramid by the department of antiquities of the Egyptian government.

The horse is estimated by American archaeologists to be about 3500 years old. It was found in a large wooden coffin, indicating that animals in ancient Egyptian times were buried in a similar manner to human beings, the Egyptians believing them to be possessed of a "soul."

The horse is more than 16 hands in measurement and is in remarkably good condition.

Cincinnati Buys Meeker, Prothro

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 17.—Roy Meeker, pitcher, and "Doc" Prothro, third baseman, have been purchased from the Portland club of the Pacific Coast league, Garry Herrmann, president of the Cincinnati Reds, announced today. The deal is said to have involved $75,000 cash and two Cincinnati players to be named later. Meeker will report at once and Prothro as soon as he can be replaced.

Grape Car Plan Placed In Effect

FRESNO, Aug. 16.—Designed to eliminate the possibility of a freight car shortage, the grape car plan of the American Railway association was effective in the state today. The grape car plan makes it necessary for grape shippers to designate 10 days in advance the approximate number of cars they will need to take care of their shipments.

Noted Riders of West to Be Seen in Action at S. A. Rodeo

Early western days will be reenacted here when "imported" bronco riders and cow punchers meet for the second annual Irvine Ranch roundup, to be staged next Saturday and Sunday at the roundup grounds on South Main street, near Newport road.

Something of the dash and thrills that characterized the days of Buffalo Bill is promised by Lin Tharall, foreman at the Irvine cattle ranch.

Thirty bucking horses are to be brought here for the event. In addition to these, 50 wild cattle from the range are to be brought in for the milking contests, according to Tharall.

Perhaps one of the most exciting events will be the milking contest. The wild cows will be turned loose and the milkers, equipped with pop bottles, will attempt to fill the soda bottles with milk. This, with the horse bucking, steer riding and scramble racing will provide excitement aplenty.

Some of the riders who are to attend the rodeo took part in the Pendleton roundup, the annual contest at which noted riders of the nation meet.

The array of riders who will perform include veterans of the Pendleton roundup, the Cheyenne Frontier's Day celebration and the Phoenix roundup. Among them are Key Dunn, Hipple Burneister, Andy Juaregui, Tommy Scarlett, Tommy Sutton, Dusty Ball, Noah Henry, Lloyd Sanders and others. Tickets for the roundup covered reserve seats will be on sale Wednesday at the C. S. Kelley drug store, in Santa Ana.

UNIQUE EXHIBIT TO BE SEEN AT FAIR

An unusual mechanical device, now displayed at the Sequi-Centennial exposition, in Philadelphia, will be used by the National Orange show and the San Bernardino Chamber of Commerce in the exhibit to be placed at the Orange County fair, September 6 to 11, inclusive, according to notice received by the fair board today. It will mark the first appearance of such an exhibit feature on the Pacific coast. The device is arranged with lights and kaleidoscope effects to make a colorful display of scenic features. It will occupy a central position in the San Bernardino county exhibit and will be used in displaying San Bernardino county views.

Oranges Growing In Saskatchewan

MIDALE, Sask., Aug. 16.—M. J. Peckinpaugh has succeeded in growing oranges at his home here. He planted the seed eight years ago and has been tending it with great care ever since. The tree has been bearing for three years, but this is the first year the fruit has been of ordinary size. This year it bore eight oranges, which are fully ripe. Midale is 30 miles north of the northwest corner of North Dakota.

CONFERENCE ON HIGHWAY PLANS IS CANCELLED

A conference, scheduled to be held at Newport Beach, to consider plans for a state highway from the San Bernardino mountains to the sea, at Orange County Harbor, has been postponed indefinitely, according to Harry Welch, secretary of the Coast-to-Crest Highway association, formed recently by representatives of Southland chambers of commerce, to boost the project.

Opposition by the Riverside Chamber of Commerce to the plan for the road through San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange counties, has resulted in cancellation of the meeting, Welch said.

Riverside's opposition is understood to have been responsible for the decision of other interested communities to drop the proposal until conditions make it advisable to resume the effort for a state highway from San Bernardino to Newport Beach.

In deciding not to send a delegation to the meeting, which was called for August 21, the directors of the Riverside Chamber of Commerce contended, Welch added, that the state highway commission is not prepared to take over additional roads, and that the issue should not be forced until the commission is ready to listen to it. Under present conditions, the state is not ready to put money into the road, and if the highway were taken over by the state now, the counties would turn their road funds to other routes and the new highway would not be properly maintained, the Riverside chamber directors argued.

"This must not be interpreted as permanent opposition by Riverside to the highway," the Riverside directors were quoted as having said.

LONG BEACH BOYS ARE JAILED HERE

Two Long Beach boys were arrested at the end of South Main street Saturday night and are being held in the county jail on charges of reckless driving and breaking glass on the highway. The arrests were made by State Officers Hurd and Barnhill.

W. Christensen, 21, student, of 257 Terminal avenue, Long Beach, is being held on the reckless driving charge and R. Gardner, 20, 55 Louis avenue, Long Beach, is alleged to have broken a bottle on the pavement.

Both men were scheduled to be brought before Justice Kenneth Morrison today.

LILLIAN CANNON TO BEGIN TIDE BATTLE

CAPE GRIS NEZ, France, Aug. 16.—Lillian Cannon, of Baltimore, planned today to begin an attempt to swim the English channel at midnight. Weather conditions were ideal.

Miss Cannon's attempt will be on a grand scale hitherto unapproached, and her purpose will be to better the record of Gertrude Ederle, who, a week ago Friday, swam the channel in 14 1/2 hours. About 100 witnesses and correspondents, including representatives of French, British and American papers, were expected to accompany the swimmer aboard a tug.

Men Attracted by Mayor's Complaint

MATLOCK, Eng., Aug. 16.—When the old-fashioned mayor of this old-fashioned health resort complained that "99 per cent of our inhabitants this summer are girls," he launched one of the greatest sociological investigations of modern times.

For the young men of England, struck by the novelty of a whole town populated almost entirely by girls, seem to have decided to put in their holidays studying the various aspects of so unusual a community.

They have filled up as by magic every hall bedroom in Matlock. Four jazz orchestras are arriving this week-end to assist in the scientific research.

MELILOTUS CLOVER SEED

Just received a carload of extra fancy Melilotus Indica for cover crops. This seed tests better than 99.5 in Purity and better than 92 in germination.

The price of $4.00 per hundred pounds is the lowest we have ever sold it at. At this rate it will cost the grower less than a dollar an acre for seed. Think of it.

NEW ILLINOIS PARK TO HAVE MOUND HOMES

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 16.—The huge mound of earth in St. Clara and Madison counties in southern Illinois, built, it is believed, by the "mound builders" in bygone ages, a race concerning which there has been much speculation, soon will be a part of Illinois' newest state park.

Archaeologists estimate the population of the mound region could not have been less than 100,000.

Scientists for years have been puzzled over the mounds and speculated as to the race that built them.

One thing, they agree, is practically certain, that the moundbuilders had disappeared before the Indians began their bloody battles and peaceful hunting trips in central North America.

Final plans for the state park have now been completed and work is expected to be started at the site in the near future.

A mile of pavement within the park has been decided upon. A large touring camp will be placed at one end of the park. A walk around the largest mound will be constructed so that sightseers may gaze at the huge pile. The mound itself will be left undisturbed.

Recently the state of Illinois purchased the mounds at a price of $50,000 and $20,000 will be spent in making a park of the site.

Thomas L. Fekete, member of the state legislature from East St. Louis, St. Clair county, in which the park will be situated, fathered the bill for the purchase and beautifying of the mound country.

Completion of the paving work is expected within a year and the park, it is hoped, will be thrown open to the public soon thereafter.

Whether the mounds were altars of a primitive race, built for the worship of their now forgotten gods, or whether they were connected with the burial of tribal rulers has never been ascertained.

Excavations have shown that numerous tools and trinkets which doubtless were valuable to their makers, and other articles were buried in the great earth heaps.

Interest in the mounds has been fostered by recent explorations and by agitation for the bill for creation of the park when it was sent through the state assembly. High prices set on the property in the vicinity balked state purchase of the mounds for years.

TEXAS WIFE HERE SEEKING HUSBAND

Mrs. O. C. Bedde, resident of Bullinger, Tex., is in Santa Ana seeking her husband, Oral C. Bedde, who has been missing from his home in Texas since January 8.

She reported the fact that the man is missing to the sheriff's office yesterday.

Bedde is described as being 27 years old, five feet, 10 inches in height, has brown hair and eyes and weighs 162 pounds. He lisp slightly.

Mrs. Bedde reported that her husband left home to get his shoes repaired and did not return. He has not been heard from since that time.

S. A. Man Given Speed Ticket by Orange Officer

Charged with driving his machine 48 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone, S. R. Cox, Santa Ana, a driver for the Seth Richards company, was given a ticket in Orange yesterday by Motor Officer Charles Wallace.

F. Flores, Arlington, was fined $100 in Justice Ingles court in Orange this morning, when he appeared, following his arrest, yesterday, on a reckless driving charge. It was alleged that Flores drove his car in a zig zag manner on East Chapman street, causing other motorists to scurry for driveways.

Others arrested yesterday in Orange and the charge preferred against them included K. Y. Lee, Calexico, 49 miles in a 20-mile zone and 50 miles in a 35-mile zone; Charles Garvia, Los Angeles, unnecessary noise; Henry Coudey, Burbank, reckless driving; Lester Campbell, Los Angeles, 30 miles in a 15-mile zone; Foss Field, Orange, unnecessary noise and 49 miles in a 35-mile zone.

Cars operated by Joe Brady, Los Angeles, and Sam Willy, Orange, collided, yesterday, at the intersection of Center and Chapman streets. Neither car was damaged seriously.

Captain Is Jailed After Failure to Identify Himself

Because he could not identify himself as having the right to drive the automobile he was in, V. Rasmussen, 35, captain of a small yacht at San Diego, was arrested by State Traffic Officer Jim Ycain and Deputy Sheriffs Moxley and Smith late Saturday afternoon on a charge of speeding 45 miles an hour. The man was given a ticket on this charge and was lodged in jail when he could not prove identification.

According to Cain, the name of the owner of the car, as given by Rasmussen at the time of the arrest, did not correspond with the registration card in the automobile.

The normal weight of a child at birth is eight pounds.

There are eight American soldier-cemeteries in Europe.

S. A. LEAGUE FLAG FAVORITES PLAY TONIGHT

BILLY EVANS
Says

At the close of the recent second invasion of the east by the western clubs of the American league, the Chicago White Sox stopped off at Auburn, N. Y., to play an exhibition game with Toronto of the International league.

One of the big state penitentiaries of New York is located at Auburn. Naturally it is one of the points of interest through which distinguished guests are escorted. The White Sox come under that class.

Now it seems several years ago Umpire Bill Dinneen of the American league staff donated his services for the big game of the year between the prison team, known as the inside club, and a team of picked professionals, known as the outside club.

In that game a choice bit of repartee was fired at Bill by one of the prisoners. It is now one of the prison classics and is always related to guests. Of course the Chicago club got an earful.

And when a crowd of ball players "get" something funny, or out of the ordinary, on an umpire you can depend on the boys playing it up at every opportunity. Hence the White Sox did that very thing with Dinneen.

PLAYERS KID DINNEEN

The day following the exhibition game at Auburn, Dinneen and myself were assigned to work at Chicago. As he walked on the field the Chicago club in a chorus yelled:

"Guess that guy at Auburn told you plenty when you called him out on that rotten third strike."

A wide grin played over Dinneen's face as the salutation greeted his ears. Unable to get the facts from him I appealed to Manager Eddie Collins for the details.

"It was the ninth," explained Eddie, with the outside team leading 2-1 as the inside boys came in for their last bats.

"The prison team filled the bases with two out. The next batter was a big husky negro, the Babe Ruth of the prison team. With the count three balls and two strikes on him, Bill Dinneen called the next one a strike and the game was over. The batsman thought it much too low and expressed his feelings thusly to Dinneen:

"A lot of us boys are in here for pulling less than that."

ANENT THIRD STRIKE

Ball players, major or minor, amateur or semi-pro, dislike to be called out on the third strike.

One strike means nothing to most players. And while the situation grows a trifle more serious with the calling of strike two, the objections are very limited.

But calling the same style pitch strike three will invariably get a rise out of the batsman. Every player wants to have his swing at the third one.

It is more or less an unwritten law of baseball that with two strikes on the batsman, he shouldn't court danger by letting anything that looks good go by, thus giving the umpire a chance to call him out on strikes.

Most batsmen adhere to precedent and naturally raise the claim that if the ball was good they would have certainly swung at it. The pitcher is seldom given credit for having outguessed them.

At such times peppy conversation usually passes between batsman and umpire.

UMPIRE'S REPARTEE

In this connection, I recall an incident of a few weeks ago in Philadelphia in which infielder Jimmy Dykes and Umpire Hildebrand played the leading roles.

Early in the game, Dykes after having made a remarkable stop of a batted ball shot a terribly wild throw to first base.

The following inning Hildebrand called a strike on Dykes that Jimmy regarded as too low.

"A rotten strike!" shouted Dykes as he stepped out of the box and continued to grumble.

"It didn't compare with that throw of yours," replied Hildebrand and I didn't tell the world what I thought of it."

I noticed that Dykes immediately resumed his place in the batter's box and made no further comment. When he came down to third I inquired the nature of the dialogue that passed between the two. Dykes repeated it, admitting defeat.

"What else could I do? He had me right," said Jimmy.

And so it goes. The third strike is the toughest one—the all-time one the batter lets it sail past the plate without even offering at it.

Anne Borg, Illinois A. C., was one broad smile after he set a new world's swimming record of 10 minutes, 38 seconds for 880 yards free style, at Philadelphia.

MISS RYAN IS FAVORITE TO SUCCEED HELEN

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 16.—A new women's tennis champion was to be selected by the end of the week in the play at the West Side Tennis club here, following withdrawal of Miss Helen Wills, present champion. Miss Wills was forced to default as the result of her physical condition, following an appendicitis operation in Paris.

Withdrawal of Miss Wills leaves the question of a favorite an open one with Miss Mary K. Browne, Miss Elizabeth Ryan and Mrs. Molla Mallory the players most favored.

Of these three, Miss Ryan, who seems at the choice of most of the tennis fans.

Miss Eleanor Goss, Mrs. Charlotte Chapin, Miss Penelope Anderson and Miss Eleanor Sears were looked upon as possible contenders.

Miss Ryan and Mrs. Mallory are in opposite halves of the draw, while in Miss Ryan's half will be found Miss Browne, Miss Goss and Miss Anderson. Miss Anderson and Miss Martha Bayard are in Mrs. Mallory's half.

Miss Ryan won the Women's New York state championship by defeating Miss Mary K. Browne, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3. Mrs. Mallory has returned the challenge bowl with the request it stay in competition. It became hers by virtue of her third victory. Hereafter it will be known as the Molla Mallory challenge bowl.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The celebration that Johnny Dundee had planned for his 17th anniversary as a boxer is definitely off.

Rain today forced a cancellation of the bout scheduled for tonight between the veteran and Phil McGraw of Detroit at the Coney Island stadium. The fight between the lightweights was to be a 12-round affair.

Dundee is matched against Tod Morgan, junior lightweight champion, for a fight in San Francisco September 6 and must leave for the coast immediately.

English Papers Claim Gertrude Aided by Boats

LONDON, Aug. 16.—The Westminster Gazette today quoted the Dover Express and the East Kent News, as well as other English newspapers, as saying that Miss Gertrude Ederle's channel swim was materially aided by skillful plotting of boats accompanying the girl swimmer.

The newspapers said maneuvering of the escort craft protected the swimmer against the full effect of the tide and waves, and that she was drawn along in the suction of the boats.

Doeg Is Junior Tennis Champion

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—John Doeg of Santa Monica, Calif., won the National Junior Tennis singles title yesterday, defeating Julius Seligson of New York, 6-4, 1-6, 8-6, 6-3.

ARLETT RETAINS LEAD

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16.—"Buz" Arlett of the Oaks maintained leadership in Pacific Coast league batting last week although dropping 2 points to 375. Boone of the Missions, is second at 367 with Eldred, of Seattle just a point behind. Boone leads in home runs with 26.

Here and There in Local Sports

If you should happen to ask The Thinker what he is thinking about these days his metallic voice would probably ring out: "Football."

With a perfectly good iron constitution, The Thinker can afford to think about football. There'll be plenty of us with constitutions not of iron who won't weather the coming season so well.

Gentlemen who prefer a shrill-voiced population and aren't so particular whether their fallbacks are blond or brunette have already let it be known that they're ready to go. Bring on your old pigskin, they are.

"Tex" Oliver, known professionally under the higher falutin' name of Gerald Allen, has come to Santa Ana and gone again but he'll return soon, primed to take the driver's seat atop the Santa Ana high school football bandwagon.

Oliver was in town but a day or two but he was fired up for the tankard turmoil as if it were September 15, I am told. Being on a vacation at San Francisco and not at Carmel, rumors to the contrary notwithstanding, the writer missed visiting with the former San Diego mentor who left word that he would arrive here to take up his residence early in September.

"Tex" is ready to yank off his coat and get down to work. He realizes better than anyone else that he has a behemoth task in filling the shoes of "Chunky" Chuck Winterburn, who "goes up" to Stanford after a seasonally successful season at Poly, but Oliver doesn't fear work and lots of it. He's a snappy, gingery little cuss with a winning personality, much like Winterburn in that respect, and Santa Ana is going to like him.

Proof that athletics—even of the most strenuous variety—are not inimical to long life is offered by the famous Yale crew of 1886, all 10 of which, counting the coxswain and substitute, met recently to muse on past triumphs.

All of these men are past the 60 mark, but doubtless at the time of their triumphs there were few who thought the crew would be hale and hearty 40 years after graduation.

A lot has been said about "athletic heart", which is supposed to make such inroads on men who spend a physically strenuous youth. You have heard time and again that the athlete's chances of reaching a ripe old age were not as good as those of his more sedentary brethren.

Apparently, however, the heritage of a sound, well-muscled body does mean something. The Yale crew of '86 offers some refutation, at least, to the theory that "athletic heart" is such a dreadful menace.

Notice of their intention to recall George Blaeholder, husky Garden Grove pitcher, has been served by the St. Louis Browns on the Tulsa club of the Western league with whom Blaeholder has been since he was "farmed" under option to Tulsa by the American league organization last March.

This action means that Blaeholder will return to St. Louis at the close of the Western league race next month. Since the Browns are floundering around near the tailend of the club standings, badly in need of pitching, it is quite probable that the Garden Grove pitcher will get his name in a few major league box scores ere his return to Orange county soil.

Blaeholder has enjoyed a great year in the Western league and is easily the ranking moundsman of the fast A loop. The big right hander recently won his twenty-first game of the campaign and Tulsa fandom is pulling for him to establish a Western league record by recording 30 victories before his return to major league company.

Jimmy Austin, St. Louis coach, signed Blaeholder here three years ago after George had shown promise during a season in the Orange County Harbor league. He was sent out one season to the Three T's where he twirled sensationally.

S. A. MAN SIGNS TO MANAGE PORTLAND AGAIN NEXT YEAR

Ernie Johnson—bustling, aggressive Ernie who divided his residence during the wintry months between Santa Ana and Laguna Beach—will manage the Portland Beavers again next season.

It is understood that the popular Santa Ana alumnus has affixed his signature to a 1927 contract. This, in itself, is something of a record for few, if any ball teams, have this early announced their managerial selections for a pennant derby so far distant. Incidentally, it speaks for the regard in which Tom Turner and Connie Mack, chief stockholders of the Portland club, hold Johnson.

Johnson began the present season hopeful of leading the Beavers out of the wilderness into the promised land of baseball championships but found on his hands an assortment of former major league talent "going back" and some youngsters unseasoned for service in Class AA company. The Beavers aren't going anywhere this term but Johnson, building and experimenting for the race next year, is confident the club will fare better in 1927.

Reappointment of the gingery Little Santa Ana is a boon to local aspirants for Johnson is a great coach of young ball players and it is quite probable that he will lead several promising lads from this neighborhood to his training camp next spring. Ed Daley and Randolph Bell, former Santa Ana high school players, are known to have made favorite impressions with the Beaver boss and he may proffer them contracts.

BUC HURLERS RIVALS

Lee Meadows and Ray Kremer, Pittsburgh pitching stars, are having a merry race for the National league leadership this season. The other day Meadows had a mark of 14 wins and four defeats while Kremer's was 11 victories and four whippings. Flint Rhem of the Cards was close behind, however, with 13 triumphs and five reverses.

TIERNANS DROP SERIES OPENER TO BREA, 6-2

Home runs by Holmes and Mueller were the causes, direct and indirect, for Brea's 6 to 2 victory over the Tiernan Typewriter company in the first of a three-game series between the rival baseball teams at Brea yesterday. The same teams will meet next Sunday at the Brea Bowl.

Jerry Bowd, former Santa Ana high school star, was on the knoll for the local ensemble and turned in a creditable card during his six inning tenure. He wrenched his back in the sixth and was forced to give way to Manager George Lackaye who finished up in good style.

Brea got only seven bingles off the combined efforts of Messrs. Heard and Lackaye but the circuit knocks by Holmes and Mueller resulted in four scores. The Tiernans touched Sayala for nine safeties, all singles and for the most part well scattered over the nine sessions. Poor base-running also tended to keep the Santa Anans from doing much dot-making in the run column.

Adams, Tiernan shortstop, featured with seven difficult chances all handled perfectly. Adams and Levitt Daley were the lone locals swatmiths to hit safely more than once. Mueller got a brace of blows for Brea.

TO LEAVE BROWNS?

George Sisler will not manage the St. Louis Browns next season, according to reports. He will not even be with the Browns, 'tis said. Persistent rumors continue that Monigan Marvel will be traded to Washington and that the veteran Roger Peckinpaugh will go to St. Louis as manager in the transaction.

Hitt vs. Johnson

The Blauers have assembled some pretty fair country ball players themselves. They managed to struggle through the last pennant drive without begging for mercy and, while there is considerable doubt if they are as strong now as they were during the Groovers are known here, however, and it is no dark secret that they represent the cream of indoor baseball talent in this section. Lloyd Johnson, Ted Rasmussen, Bill Cole, Horace Snow, Ray Price and Gus Homier are the ringleaders of the first City circuit scramble which was completed several weeks ago.

Due to a misunderstanding of some sort, the Fluors failed to put in an appearance last week and were forced to forfeit its first imbrolio to Lee's Fountain so the affair this evening will be, in a measure, their introductory gesture. Virtually all the Fluor players are at its standard at the close of the race, and the F. C. Blauer Grocery, champions of the first City circuit scramble which was completed several weeks ago.

Gene Hitt has been nominated for Blauer slab chores and Middlebrook will likely be behind the log. Johnson and Rasmussen, the log. Johnson and Rasmussen, the log. Johnson and Rasmussen, the log.

May Play Long Beach

No game has been scheduled for Thursday, but American Legion Athletic club executives have opened communications with Long Beach looking toward their exhibition here in a go with the Santa Ana All-Stars.

Regular Orange County league conflicts are on the book for Friday. The Santa Ana American Legion had its long lead out to but one full game last week and if they falter again before the race closes a week from Friday any one of three clubs—the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, the Orange All-Stars and the Anaheim Bulletin—may head them off and win the right to enter the play-off for the Southern California championship.

The Legionnaires, however, have all the best of the remaining schedule, meeting Brea here Friday and Laguna Beach here a week from Friday. The Chamber of Commerce goes to Garden Grove this week and meets Anaheim at Anaheim next week. Orange plays Olive at home Friday but hits the road for its last contest with Garden Grove, Anaheim, meets Laguna Beach at Laguna Beach in the current week's set-to.

CLASSY FLUOR TEAM TO MIX WITH BLAUERS

Excelsiors Face Lumbermen Tomorrow; O'Donnells Against Lee's Wednesday

Two teams of championship or near-championship timber go to the argumentative rostrum at Lincoln park tonight in the opening contest of the second week in the new Santa Ana City Indoor Baseball league. They are the Fluor Construction company, favorites in the future books to nail the pennant to its standard at the close of the race, and the F. C. Blauer Grocery, champions of the first City circuit scramble which was completed several weeks ago.

Clemenceau in Limelight After Five Years of Retirement

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Writer

(Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)
PARIS, Aug. 16.—The Tiger of France has unsheathed his claws again.

Old "Father Victory" is on the warpath once more.

Georges Clemenceau, who led France to victory against the Germans, will be 85 on September 23. He retired five years ago. The politicians whom he had thunderstruck to silence in his heyday believed that he was "through."

Poincare, his arch enemy, now premier of France, believed it. Clemenceau talked softly to the United States about the war debts and spoke of rafting the debt settlements.

Sets France Thinking

And then, out of his almost forgotten lair, came the Tiger with a roar. In an open letter to President Coolidge he scolded the debt negotiations and exhortated America's post-war attitude.

So all of France, his enemies and his friends, is wondering: what next? What has the old Tiger got up his sleeve?

This abrupt political resurrection of Clemenceau is one of the most amazing developments in French political history. It contains, in particular, food for thought for Premier Poincare. Not so long ago, I asked the Tiger his opinion of Poincare:

"Poincare is a 'damphule.' He said bluntly in idiomatic English that he has used very little since he left America more than 50 years ago.

"Poincare knows everything but understands nothing."

Then, as I asked him about one of Poincare's predecessors in the premiership, he remarked:

"Briand knows nothing, but understands everything."

Simple Arithmetic

Not long ago the editor of a leading Paris newspaper wrote to a number of leading statesmen asking what they thought of the government then in power. Clemenceau's reply consisted solely in the following equation, scribbled on a piece of paper:

"0 plus 0 plus 0 equals 0."

Later he characterized the Herriot government as "a ministry of poor relations."

What Clemenceau may be thinking and planning just now is known only to himself. What the future may hold for him is equally problematical. Will "Father Victory," by a strange trick of fate, prove at last to be the one man who can lead France out of the financial and diplomatic tangle in which she is enmeshed since he left the helm? It sounds absurd—and yet, since his letter to President Coolidge, you hear men speaking of it.

It is impossible to guess from a conversation with the old Tiger himself. He seems quite unruffled. When you ask him for an opinion his eyes twinkle, under their bushy brows, and he says:

"The first 75 years are the hardest. After that you acquire a philosophy."

By his own rule, Clemenceau should at least have that in full measure. The things that the man has been and done—teacher, doctor, orator, soldier, agitator, editor, playwright, cabinet member, premier, even writer of a movie film. If republics were not notoriously ungrateful he would have been president of France as well. But in 1921 after laying down the reins of government, he sought this last honor and was defeated.

Refused to Sulk

But he acquired his philosophy. He did not sulk. He withdrew into the solitude of his library to read and write quietly, emerging only twice—once, several years ago, to tour America in an effort to win liberal financial terms for France, and again this month when he wrote his open letter to President Coolidge.

In all the world there is no figure like this. Simplicity is the keynote of his life.

When you visit him in his little flat in the Rue Franklin, in the Passy district of Paris, you wait in a room filled with pictures of Greek antiquities until you are ushered into his study. There, at a horseshoe-shaped writing table, a gray skull cap on his head and gray silk gloves on his hands, sits old "Father Victory."

Peasant's Cottage

If you visit him at his tiny cottage in St. Vincent-sur-Jard, in his native Vendee, you find a place more modern than the ordinary peasant's cottage. Clemenceau gleefully tells you that it costs him only a few hundred francs a year. Besides, it is too distant for bores to pursue him.

His daily life is rigidly regulated. His meals are of the simplest. He drinks coffee and wine very sparingly, and never smokes. He tells how he "broke off" on tobacco. He was formerly an inveterate smoker, but one day he decided to quit. He laid on his bureau a box containing 25 and said he would smoke just 13, to test his will power.

"Of course, you smoked them all," says a friend.

"Of course I did not," he retorted. "I smoked the 13 down to the last end. Then I quit and I have not smoked since."

His food is cooked for him by the old housekeepers he maintains in his two homes, and are always served by his valet, the faithful Albert, who went to America with him. Eight o'clock at night sees Clemenceau in bed; 4 a. m. sees him up. If in Paris, he sets busy with his books. If in the Vendee he takes long rambles by the sea shore.

Consider the man's extraordinary life. Born Sept. 28, 1841, in Fesle, the son of a doctor, he first studied medicine, and in fact took his doctor's degree and settled down to a physician's practice. But in 1866 he moved to America to study social conditions, settling in Connecticut and even marrying an American girl, Miss Mary Plummer. He returned to France just after the Franco-Prussian war, in 1870, drawing in those troubled years an inextinguishable hatred for Germany.

Tiger for 50 Years

In 1876 he was elected to the chamber of deputies, where his virulent speeches won him the nickname that has clung to him ever since—"The Tiger."

Defeated for parliament in 1893—he was accused of being pro-English at a time when Franco-British relations were very bad—he became an editor, and for nine years fought for the democratic cause. In 1903 he was elected to the senate, and three years later became premier of France for the first time. In 1908, he established the Franco-British entente.

He resigned in 1909, returned to the chamber of deputies, and was a prominent figure there for years. At last, in the fall of 1917, when the war was going badly and there was much defeatist talk, Clemenceau became premier.

"I Make War"

To all pleas for peace he replied only:

"Je fais la guerre—I make war."

He scrapped generals that were no good. He made Foch generalissimo of the allied armies. He toured the front lines constantly. He won the affectionate name of "Father Victory." And after the armistice he negotiated the Treaty of Versailles with Lloyd George and Woodrow Wilson—negotiated so cannily that Lloyd George remarked, "Every time I see the old man he has shed another year and gained another claw."

He gave one rule of writing conduct which might be framed in most magazine and newspaper offices. Clemenceau was at the time editor of "Justice." M. Mandel, in after years to be his right hand man, was making his debut as a writer for the paper. Clemenceau was giving him counsel:

"To write is easy—short phrases—a verb, a subject, an attribute."

He remained silent for a moment. Then he added: "If you wish to add an adjective, you come to see me first."

BELIEVE IT OR NOT!

LONDON, Aug. 16.—There are no seasons in the Malay jungle, according to Carveth Wells, the explorer, who wrote "Six Years in the Malay Jungle." While one tree is in bud another may be in full bloom, according to Wells, in the great mud flats along the coast "bottle of rum." For that's the way and climb trees for relaxation. Wells declares he saw a fish scot down from its perch in a tree, trip to the edge of a pool and scoop up water in its fin, which it poured on its head to cool itself.

POOR FAMILIES IN SANTA ANA GET FREE ICE

Proprietors of a Santa Ana ice company may be in a "cold" business, but their hearts are warm, anyway. It was learned today that several needy families are being supplied with free ice.

Hot summer weather is the enemy of the baby, and the ice man does not pass up the home where his commodity really is needed but the family unable to pay. He gladly leaves the few pounds that are needed and means so much to the family, and with a cheery "you're welcome" to the "thank you" of the worried mother, goes whistling on his rounds.

Ice and warm weather go hand in hand and if you don't believe it, just visit one of the "cold stuff" establishments in this city and watch the cakes being loaded on delivery trucks for transportation of the ice boxes of Santa Ana housewives.

These huge cakes of frozen water will be cut into all sizes, from 10 pounds to several hundred, in order to fit the home made ice box, composed of a tin bucket in a dish pan, to the large ones of the hotels and restaurants.

While old sol makes the crops grow, he also makes the ice disappear and is the cause of the ice cards seen in the front windows of most homes. Another reason "why mothers get gray" is the difficulty of keeping the ice car where it can be found when wanted. Rescued one day from the pile of old papers, it next is found under the davenport or caught in a limb of a tree after Willie's effort to turn it into a kite.

The summer consumption of ice in Santa Ana averages about the same year after year, but the use of ice in the winter season is increasing.

Child Chained In Yard Is Released

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 16.—Shackled daily for months with a heavy chain about his neck, 8-year-old Salvatore Rossetti, one of 10 children of Mr. and Mrs. Luigi Rossetti, was freed today when neighbors reported his imprisonment to police. The lad, said by his parents to be ungovernable, was chained every day to an old bootblack stand in the rear of his home, neighbors said. After his release the boy fled and could not be found. Mrs. Rossetti admitted chaining the child "to keep him from running away."

Death Necessary To Our Welfare

SAPULPA, Okla., Aug. 16.—Besides being better for everybody concerned, it is positively necessary that you die.

Here is how the pastor of a church here figures it out:

Beginning at the time Christ, with 300,000,000 people alive then, and figuring that the population doubles every 50 years, there would now be 412,216,860,416,000,000 persons inhabiting the globe.

Considering the earth's surface, 56,000,000 square miles of which 15,000,000 is not inhabitable, that would be a population of 10,307,821 to the square mile. Too many.

Don't Act as Ape, Zoo Pastors Warn

VIENNA, Aug. 16.—Monkeys are the chief victims of the playful whims of visitors to zoos, according to the management of the Vienna zoological gardens.

Deviating from the usual high-flown language of officialdom, the management has now posted the following proclamation on the monkey cage:

"Don't feed the apes. Remember that three-fourths of the monkeys at this zoo are afflicted with intestinal disorders as the result of indiscriminate feeding by well-meaning but misled public."

"Don't tease the apes. Anyone who isn't ashamed to torture a caged and defenseless animal is himself deserving of the name of a mischievous monkey."

"When you stand in front of the monkey's cage, behave in such a manner that no one is tempted to make any invidious comparisons between your intelligence and the apes."

POE'S STORIES: The Masque of The Red Death

Sketches by Redner
Synopsis by Braucher

The seven apartments were arranged so none could be seen from any other, there being a corridor with a sharp turn leading to each. In that seventh chamber of black and red stood a gigantic clock of ebony. When the hour was to be struck there came from the clock a low, musical yet terrible sound that caused the riddiest to grow pale.

There was a sinister twang to the note that the grim clock sounded which caused even the musicians to pause in their playing.

But in spite of the seventh chamber and its ghastly light and strange clock, the revel grew wilder and more bizarre.

There was the grotesque, much of the beautiful and the fanciful, much of the wanton, something of the terrible and not a little of that which might have caused disgust. There were arabesque figures with unsuited limbs and appointments, and to and from the seven chambers stalked maskers dressed as dreams.

The WOMAN'S DAY

By Allene Sumner

MONTE CARLO, Aug. 16.—It costs 5 francs, 15 cents, to enter the marble portals of the Casino, the greatest gambling spot on earth.

Fifteen cents to enter the world of True Selfies. Fifteen cents for a view of what people really are when stripped of that mask which they wear for The Folks At Home.

One can play at the storied roulette tables one can sit in a palm-shaded court, listening to the Casino orchestra play all the tunes of moonlight and rosebuds and romance, watching these striped faces—faces of greed and anguish of fear.

One hears stories to the clatter of the croupier's sticks, raking in the little ivory discs which mean—breaking or making of a fortune. What solid faces these croupiers wear—uneventful faces! Faces of calm whether the banks have won for the house, or a tower of chips means money piled from the yellow gold coffers of the Casino bank.

A cry, a yell, almost a moan breaks through the muted cadences of the orchestra violins.

"That bankmaker again!" someone tells me. "He has not left this table for a month—only when the guards drag him out at night. He came here with bright eyes and round cheeks and a pocketbook bulging with bills. His first good time in 15 years, he told someone. He was out to win for his wife and little girl at home. He'd played the game at the races. He knew the ropes, he said; he would win enough to take them home rich clothes and jewelry. Now it's getting the better of him. He talks like a mad man about getting the system. He has grown thin and pale, and when the wheel goes against him, he makes that mad cry you heard just now."

A girl like a rosebud, from which the dew has been drained by too hot a sun, threw her ivory discs upon the green carpet with a white thin arm that trembled. Stark fear in her eyes.

I could hardly believe the story. Here it is as it was told me.

She came to the Casino on her honeymoon two months ago—"In April when all the blue stretch of the sea was perfumed with the mountain narcissus and the valley lilies," said our guide in poetic abandon.

They were a happy, chattering couple. He was a soldier in the olive green with the bright stripes of the Italian army. She a girl from the States, a student in old Florence; they had come over from Nice in "the rubberneck bus."

He asked the guide for the lowest table, the 5-franc one. It got her. The guide had given the party one hour for the Casino. At six he could not drag her away. The guide threatened. Her husband pled. The bus returned without them. When the guards dragged the players from the table at night her ivory discs totaled $50.

He was feverish with excitement. Begged her husband to stay here. Made him cancel their hotel room at Nice. Took an expensive one at Monte Carlo with the blue sea outside their window. She would pay for this and more, she said.

The story is long. A month of the honeymoon went by. Fortune on the dice, she and flow. The boy-husband pleading with her by the hour to the lit of the croupier's cries. Then the girl came to the Casino alone. Day by day stripped of some of her gay bridal finery! Yesterday she had parted with her ring. She had made no tears for it. She only watched the wheel, the ivory and the red and black.

Laughs with the tears, too. Tables spattered with the spinners of the parish at home, angular maiden ladies, hair twisted atop bony heads, the look of the pedagogues in their face, playing the wheel furtively, happily, abeam at winnings.

Sunday school teachers, ministers, reformers. They come to see the famed place of sin. They pay their 5 francs entrance. They play the wheel once "just for fun." They do not leave until night. They come the next day. Old women! Women like dried up brown parchment ready for a puff of wind! Old women with palsied hands and gasping breath—

"My children were married and grown when I was 50," one told me between the galloping wheel's turns, "nobody needed me; the children gave me an income; sug-

FEAR

Some things I am afraid of:
I live in constant fear
That thoughtless speech of mine shall reach
A child's retentive ear.

In anger's frenzied moment
I tremble lest I be
So maddened through that I shall do
A wrong a child might see.

And vigilant in pleasure
I shudder lest I may
My watch destroy, and grasp a joy
Which leads a child away.

For youthful eyes are eager,
And little ears are keen,

And no man knows the trail which grows
To mark where he has been.
And all these fears beset me,
That one may hear and see
My faulty ways and through the days
Come following after me.

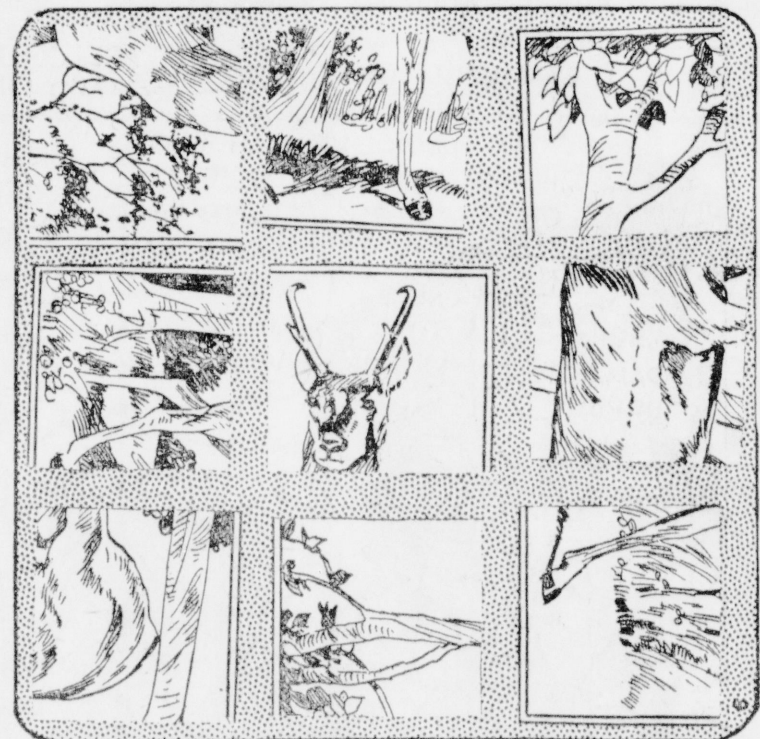

For life has boundless reaches,
And all we are survivors.
We mold and fill with good or ill
Uncounted other lives.

And so I'm fearful ever
And tremble lest I may Forget my power, for just an hour
And lead a life astray.

I played my 5 francs on black and lost. I started to buy another disc. The guide insisted that the bus was leaving—"Sometimes I go on without them and they drive home the next day in a Rolls-Royce," said he, "but you don't look like the winning kind—come on before it gets you!"

And reluctantly I did.

Home!

First of All, It's a Place To Be Happy

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Is your home a house with furniture and rugs and curtains and pictures, or is it—a home?

Is it a by-station where the family merely stops for repairs, or is it the welcome haven of rest and entertainment at the end of a busy day?

Is it a place where each chair has to stand on exactly the same depression in the rug day in and day out, the window shades kept permanently so many inches from the sill, and the doors religiously closed so that dust will not blow in—or is it a place where your sons and daughters and their friends can come and enjoy themselves?

Once a man described his old home thus in a letter: "It was like an open place full of sunlight, athwart which no cloud nor fleck of cloud seemed ever to come, and whence I retired for strength and refreshment—with my mother."

It is so very evident why not only girls, but boys leave home! Home is too often a place of complaint and scolding. We scold about muddy tracks when they are little; we scold about everything under the sun when they are older. And then we wonder why they learn to look upon home as something to be endured rather than enjoyed.

May I suggest that true hospitality has almost lost its place in the dictionary!

The wise mother will allow her children to bring their friends home often. We fuss too much about meals; we feel that we cannot offer them separate bathrooms. It is all a mistake. People are more appreciative than we think! Hospitality need not be expensive—it need only be sincere.

The family should not be made to adapt itself to the home. The home should adapt itself to the family. If you are worrying about never having your children with you, why not try the idea of having them invite their friends to the house? With phonographs and radios and pianos there is plenty of dance music these days, and—well, at our house there's a hole most worn through the living room carpet.

HERE'S A TIP

When you have a very large hole to darn, baste a piece of thin net over the hole, and darn it in the usual way.

DO IT QUICKLY

When alcohol is spilled on varnish take the precaution to wash with water immediately, or rub on oil.

Seventy-one towns in Germany are named Neustadt.

A slot machine which sells apples has been invented.

BEAUTY CHATS

WAVY HAIR

Wavy hair is becoming to certain types of faces, and at certain times is becoming to all faces. If you are very tired, for instance, and all the lines of your face are draggy, wavy hair will be more becoming than straight because it will break the up and down lines of the face. If you are very thin, wavy hair will make the face seem rounder, and if you are getting into middle age wavy hair will make you appear much younger looking than straight.

But in any case wavy hair must be soft, the wider the wave the more becoming the effect. A tight marcel into one ridge after another hardens the expression and makes the face look much older. The head looks as though it were cut into a series of little hills and valleys and the effect is wooden and ugly.

It is hard to avoid such an effect if you wave your hair yourself with curling tongs. You can only achieve a properly soft wave by rolling the hair for a short time on kid wavers which do not break or injure the hair, or by wetting it, holding it in place with combs and letting it dry under a net. The wave dries in then and is soft and fairly lasting. If you wear your hair short this home done "water-wave" is much the best method, for you not only wave the hair, you also turn the ends and shape it snugly to the head, as is fashionable at the moment.

If you wave the hair by rolling it on kid curlers you will probably have to use a hot iron to turn under the ends. You can acquire a very soft wave this way, but you will have to be very careful rolling the hair so that the waviness is even, otherwise you will get a very crisp curl next to a very loose one with an unnatural and unbecoming effect. But it is an excellent method for treating long hair. You can touch up a water wave with a hot curling iron when, after a few days, it begins to go.

Sometimes artificial waviness is becoming.

Mrs. G. B. J.—Massage with olive oil or a good cream to keep the face filled out and to rid yourself of the fine lines. You will only need an astringent if your skin is loose, and in that case use one about once a week.

A simple and harmless astringent is made by mixing together one part white of egg to six parts water. Paint it over the face and throat after you have fully cleansed the skin, and let it stay on for 20 minutes. Wash it off and then massage with a good building cream and close the pores afterward with cold water or ice.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

SPOTS VANISH

You can remove machine grease or tar from cotton material by rubbing well with lard. Then wash with soap and moderately hot water.

WHISK BROOM

An ordinary, large-sized whisk broom is valuable for brushing up holsters and cushions. It reaches the corners.

LIKE A SHORTCAKE

Blueberry toast is delicious—put toast in narrow strips, and arrange in a criss-cross pattern on a plate. Cover with blueberries, and whip cream.

THEY'LL KEEP

When buying pears it is wiser to buy those that are a bit green than those over-ripe, for they decay very rapidly.

SAVES DELAY

Prepare your vegetables early in the morning, and cover with cold water until they are needed, then cook in the usual manner.

WHEN COMPANY COMES

A few cans of salmon, tuna fish, sardines, crabmeat, and some bottled cheeses are excellent emergency articles for your refrigerator.

SUMMER, ESPECIALLY

Vegetable dinners may be very satisfying without meat if you include such hearty ones as potatoes, asparagus, carrots, and white onions, sprinkled over with a white sauce.

IT'S MELLOWER

When making fruit punch, combine your ingredients early, so as to let the flavors ripen and blend before you add the ice.

TRY THEM ONCE

Small yellow tomatoes cut in two, alternated with rounds of hard boiled egg make a very attractive garnish for the potato salad or the platter of cold meat.

HOW TO TELL

A honeydew melon that is ripe for purchase at the market is soft enough so it can be dented anywhere, particularly at the blossom end.

THEY'LL CORRODE

Never use strong acids or alkalis on metals that are connected with plumbing.

BEAT 'EM STIFF

An egg that has been well beaten has much better thickening power for sauces and puddings than one that is only slightly beaten.

Where an American hangs his hat

Once a hat was not just a hat; it was also a badge of sectionalism. That was when the broad-brimmed Stetson and the nobby derby seldom met. When South, East North, West lived differently, dressed differently, thought differently. When a traveling American could feel like a stranger in his own land.

Before advertising—

But now Mrs. Green of Boston and Mrs. Brown of El Paso use the same vacuum cleaner, face powder, soap; Adams of Boston and Sims of Seattle are alike in the cut of their clothes. And where an American hangs his hat, within the borders of these United States, he feels at home. Advertising did that.

Advertising is still at work helping to make these states united. Here is a better bed, a handsomer shoe, a more delicious food. Let it be known from Maine to California, from Washington to Florida! Here's a healthier way to live, another safeguard for your family, a new service of self-improvement. Spread the news everywhere!

NEWS FROM ORANGE COUNTY TOWNS

REV. COCHRAN TO ARRIVE IN ORANGE SOON

ORANGE, Aug. 16.—Word has been received from the Rev. Earle P. Cochran, Alameda Presbyterian pastor, who has been called to take the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church in Orange, that he has returned to Alameda from an extended vacation and expects to arrive in Orange soon.

The Rev. Cochran was called early in the summer to succeed the Rev. M. L. Pearson, who resigned May 1 to make a trip to Europe.

Because of his heavy duties, the Rev. Cochran requested a vacation before accepting the duties of the local church. For five and one-half years, the Rev. Cochran has occupied the Alameda church pulpit. Previous to that, he was assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Berkeley.

That the Rev. Cochran believes in physical as well as spiritual development is seen in his devotion to athletic and physical educational work. According to the Rev. Cochran, he was raised on a cattle ranch in Tulare county, where he punched cattle for his father and other ranch owners. The Rev. Cochran specialized in baseball and track during his theological work at the University of California and the San Francisco Theological seminary. He reports that for three years, he occupied the pitcher's box in various games in which his school teams participated.

Civic organizations and the public schools have been cited by the Rev. Cochran as occupying a goodly share of his time.

That Orange will gain a citizen of pep and vitality, one who will be an asset to the community in all respects when the Rev. Cochran arrives and takes over the pastorate of the local Presbyterian church, is the opinion of all who have come in contact with him, according to church officials.

The Rev. Cochran has made several visits to Orange and has become acquainted with many members of the local church.

NEW CANNERY TO START WORK SOON

FULLERTON, Aug. 16.—The Cutler-Lobingier company will begin the canning of tomatoes in its new plant Wednesday of this week with 150 employees, according to a statement given by H. L. Dalbey. About $3000 weekly will be distributed to the workers and an even larger amount will be paid to the farmers in this vicinity for their product.

The $65,000 canning plant just finished in Fullerton is said to be one of the finest in the state. The structure is 370 feet long by 50 feet wide and has been designed to provide the maximum of efficiency in handling all products to be canned.

For a week or so, tomatoes will be shipped into the local plant from Pomona and vicinity until the crop ripens in this vicinity. Then, the entire crop will come from the several thousand acres of tomatoes now planted in the vicinity of Fullerton, estimated to be in excess of 4000 tons.

During the present season, it is estimated that 125,000 cases of tomatoes will be canned at the plant in this city, covering a several months' period and extending into the first part of December.

The building is equipped with machinery to handle other vegetables, including spinach, string beans and squash.

The Cutler-Lobingier company operates a cannery in Pomona and another at Ontario.

Business Is On Increase, Bank Heads Declare

FULLERTON, Aug. 16.—Fullerton bankers usually indicate over business conditions this coming fall, stating that everything points toward a good era of business for this community for many months.

Bank clearings have been exceptionally large, due to the payments being made for oranges and lemons, and an increased number of new accounts are being opened up at all of the Fullerton banking institutions.

Renewed oil activity is evident in all of the producing fields adjacent to Fullerton. Several deep sands have been discovered in the Richfield district, with several good producers coming in during the recent weeks.

Real estate dealers report that rent houses are difficult to secure at the present time and that there has been considerable inquiry during the last few weeks relative to desirable resident and orange property.

PERMIT SOUGHT FOR GAS PIPES IN NEW FIELD

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 16.—The O. C. Field Gasoline company, prominent operator in the local field, has applied for a permit to lay pipe lines on a number of streets in the western section of this city.

The gasoline company has agreed to pay the city one and one-quarter cents per thousand cubic feet of gas sold to oil companies in the district, according to reports. The permit asks for permission to lay two lines on the streets, one for wet or untreated gas and the other for treated or dry gas, which would be returned to the wells.

At the present time, the Southern Counties Gas company has the only gas system in the new oil district.

GASOLINE FIRMS' TAX RATE RAISED

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 16.—The city license on gasoline companies was raised from $12.50 a year to $125 a year at a special meeting of the city board of trustees here last week. It was announced today. The meeting was called for the purpose of determining whether or not to extend the city sewer lines to the $500,000 high school plant now nearing completion. The trustees authorized City Clerk C. R. Furr to advertise for bids for the installation of the sewer line.

The salary of the city engineer was raised from $200 a month to $225 a month.

L. B. WATER BIDS UNDER ESTIMATE

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 16.—"Studies made of four bids received by the directors of the Laguna Beach Community Water district for the main water supply conduit from the Santa Ana river basin indicate that the total cost will be well within the engineer's estimate."

The above statement, issued by E. A. Rowe, chief engineer for J. B. Lippincott, is good news for the taxpayers of the district, according to the directors. It assures the building of the water system within the $600,000 voted by the people unanimously last January. The probable completion date is March 1, 1927.

From present indications, the Western Concrete Pipe company is lower bidder by a narrow margin. Mr. Rowe refused to make a statement to that effect, saying a checking of the figures might change the result. R. F. Ware probably is the second lowest bidder. Others, who were close up, were Elliot, Stroud Brothers and Seabrook and A. H. Rohl.

Realty Chief To Speak At Laguna Beach

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 16.—Harry H. Culver, president of the California Real Estate association and founder of Culver City, has accepted an invitation to a dinner to be held August 19, when the Lindblade trophy watch will be presented to the Laguna Beach Realty board. This prize was won because Laguna Beach gained more members than any other real estate board in this section in proportion to population, during a recent drive. Charles E. Lindblade, donor of the prize, will be at the dinner and make the formal presentation speech. A. B. Marshall, president of the Laguna Beach Realty board, will accept the trophy on behalf of the local organization and by vote of the members of the board, he will be delegated to wear the watch because it was through Mr. Marshall's personal efforts that the record was made.

The dinner, which will be held at one of the local cafes, will be informal. N. E. West is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements. The dinner will begin promptly at 6:30 o'clock, after which the company will adjourn to the Chamber of Commerce building, where the formal ceremonies will be held.

Glenn D. Williams, state secretary, and Frank C. Pope, of Santa Ana, state vice president, will be among the guests of honor.

MILEY READY TO PLACE WELL ON PRODUCTION

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 16.—The Pacific Electric No. 1 well of the Miley Petroleum Exploration company is expected to be the second completion in the west end of Huntington Beach. Miley found the oil sand at 3025 feet, set 11-inch casing at that depth, and is now drilling into the oil sand with the prospect that the well will make a production test the latter part of this week. It is located in the same block with the discovery well of the Superior Oil company, and has had practically the same showings.

The Wilshire Oil company, first active driller in the new field, is plugging along in its No. 1 well at somewhere around 3600 feet, exact depth being variable. The company has two other wells under way, and apparently has a good chance to finish one or two of its later wells before the No. 1 is completed.

Drilling projects in the new field number over 40, with more than a dozen companies operating. Practically all of the new development is in an area containing not more than five or six acres, which indicates that the west end of Huntington Beach will probably be as intensively drilled as Los Cerritos and Signal Hill.

Most of the operators believe that only those who are fortunate enough to get their wells down early are likely to make any money out of the field. The first completions will establish the channels through which the underground oil will flow, and subsequent projects are not likely to get much oil, nor to last long, it is asserted.

It is the realization of this fact that is causing the most experienced operators to speed up their operations. The Standard Oil company is putting down eight wells now, Miley is putting down six, the Superior Oil company is drilling six, and several other companies are each putting down four or five wells.

ORANGE

ORANGE, Aug. 16.—Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Hagen, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Carlisle and son, Robert, of Delano, attended the Iowa picnic at Long Beach Saturday.

Mrs. Carlisle and son remained in Long Beach to visit Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Blackman, former Iowa friends.

Dian Gardner Jr. has left for the University of California at Berkeley. He is a graduate of the local high school. He will enter the state university with advanced standing, having attended Southern branch in Los Angeles last term.

Miss Emily Spotts, of 633 West Chapman avenue, had the pleasure of entertaining her grandniece and nephews yesterday. Fernie Erwin and Welter Erwin, of San Dimas, Leonard Schwenndemann, of Tustin, and Beverly Bertman, of Orange.

Miss Gladys Claypool is visiting with Miss Mabel Medlicott in Redondo.

Miss Madeline Margaret Clarkson has returned home from her teaching in Los Angeles and will spend the next month with her parents.

The many local friends of Mrs. C. N. Ellis will be delighted to hear that she is improving from her golfer operation at the Santa Ana hospital a week ago.

Miss Mildred Frerking, South Orange street, returned Wednesday evening from Pomona, where she visited her sister, Mrs. O. H. King.

D. M. Rouse, of 223 West Chapman avenue, has taken charge of the ignition department of Parsons and Roberts garage.

F. Brown and family, who formerly resided at 183 North Waverly street, are now located at 736 Park avenue, Pomona.

F. M. Deadrick, of Carpinteria, has opened a fruit stand on the Chris Habener place, on West Chapman avenue west of Main street.

Colonel E. L. Pyle, of Ventura, is visiting at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Pyle, North Olive street.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Williams, who returned recently from Los Angeles, are now residing at 709 West Palmyra avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Wolford, of 512 North Olive street, have moved to 1340 East Walnut street.

W. A. Parlin, of 644 North Lemon street, has left on an extended vacation to Porterville.

F. J. Paul and family, of West Palm avenue, have moved into their new home at 604 West Palmyra avenue.

J. L. Power, of 626 West Culver street, has opened a store at 638 West Culver street.

J. W. Huber, of 811 North Cambridge street, has returned from an extended trip to Washington and Oregon.

Mr. and Mrs. Steward M. White have moved into their new home at 12 Lester Drive.

Miss Mabel Medlicott is spending part of her two weeks vacation with her parents in Redondo Beach.

L. A. Stevenson will spend the next two weeks with his family at Laguna Beach.

F. Calliet and family are now residing at 144 South Shaffer street.

Mrs. M. Manty is now located at 168 South Orange street.

The C. M. P. Club was entertained Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Frank Palmer on the spacious lawn of her home at 183 South Center street. At 4 o'clock, the hostess served refreshments to the following guests: Mrs. L. W. Hemphill, Mrs. A. B. Lane, Mrs. O. U. Hull, Mrs. J. A. Campbell, Mrs. W. E. Anderson, Mrs. George Campbell, Mrs. Bowen and Mrs. E. J. Browne.

STANDARD SECURES PERMITS FOR 3 NEW H. B. OIL WELLS; ACTION PUZZLES OPERATORS

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 16.—Permits for three more oil derricks were issued to the Standard Oil company Saturday, bringing the total of new wells in the western section of this city to 43. It was announced today. Eight permits were issued Saturday, five being granted to the Superior Oil company.

The three new Standard wells will be located near the ocean front, where all the derricks seem to be congregating. Two of the rigs will be located on Twenty-second street between Orange and Olive avenues and the other rig will be on Nineteenth street between Ocean avenue and Walnut avenue. A boiler plant is to be located on the lot with the last rig.

Local oil men are considerably puzzled at the course being followed by the Standard in the western section. Heretofore, it has been the policy of the company not to take leases in a town lot field. The Standard already has several wells drilling in the district and with the Superior is the largest operator in the new field.

NEIGHBORS ROW OVER $10 GARAGE

ORANGE, Aug. 16.—J. V. Dorsey, West Culver street resident, Saturday swore out a warrant for the arrest of D. M. Groves, his next door neighbor, on a charge of petit larceny.

It is alleged in the complaint that Groves stole a garage valued at approximately $10.

Groves is away on business. However, Mrs. Groves states that the garage belongs to her husband on the ground that when it was built, there was an understanding with the adjoining property that the garage would be allowed to protrude onto his lot a few feet.

Dorsey says that when he purchased the property, no statement regarding the status of the garage was made to him and that he bought it with the other property.

BAPTISTS ELECT ANAHEIM PASTOR

ORANGE, Aug. 16.—The Rev. O. R. Schroeder, pastor of the German Baptist church, Anaheim, will lead the Young People's and Sunday School Workers union, German Baptist churches of California, as its president, it was revealed following an election held Saturday in the third session of the convention.

The Rev. Schroeder's name met with the unanimous favor of the voting delegates.

Other officers elected at the session were Meta Seidel, of Wasco, Kern county, who will serve as secretary, and Carl J. Remland, Anaheim youth, who will be the organization's treasurer during the coming year.

Addresses were given by the Rev. K. Feldmeth, who spoke on "In His Service" and by the Rev. August Junkett, speaking on "A Word of Welcome to Sunday School Workers."

The Rev. Feldmeth pointed out the advantages of work in association with the church, urging young people to become more active in its work, helping other young people to appreciate its values.

Fifteen minute talks were given by visiting pastors on requirements for bringing Sunday school work to a higher plane of efficiency and usefulness. Sidelights on this question were discussed by the Rev. C. H. Edinger, "Suitable Equipment," the Rev. G. E. Loht, "An Exemplary Leadership," Fred Wall, "Efficient Teachers."

150 FULLERTON EMPLOYEES PICNIC

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 16.—More than 150 employees of the city of Fullerton enjoyed their annual beach picnic here Saturday. A program of games and music was enjoyed during the day. The picnic was in charge of W. C. Record, of Fullerton. Huntington Beach people contributed to the general welcome of the visitors and supplied a number of prizes for the various events of the day.

The Fullerton picnic was one of a number of picnics held here during the past few days, due to the activity of the city advertising department.

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Aug. 16.—Mrs. Carl Romer and small son, Carlos, are the guests of Mrs. R. F. McFadden at Balboa.

Mrs. Mary Carlin, of Los Angeles, an active settlement worker, is visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. H. R. Henery, of the old Adobe studio.

Supervisor Jeffrey has men at work improving McKinley avenue. Dr. Marvin Dean, minister of the new First Baptist church, Pasadena, has purchased a large painting by H. Raymond Henry to grace the corridor of the new church. Several of Mr. Henry's paintings were purchased last week, one going to St. Louis.

Miss Mildred Nelson, one of the new teachers of the grammar school, is spending a few days with her parents in Orange before school begins next week. Miss Nelson has been at the Adobe studio during the summer.

Mrs. William Rios has returned from a visit with friends in Los Angeles.

George Barns, of McKinley avenue, is visiting his cousin, Howard Barns, in Orange.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey McClellan and son, Dewey Jr., left Saturday by motor for San Francisco.

H. Raymond Henry, local artist, is in Los Angeles overseeing the reproduction of his painting of Brice Canyon, Utah.

Mr. and Mrs. John Daneri were in Santa Ana Friday on business.

CITRUS HOUSE AT M'PHERSON PAYS $126.077

ORANGE, Aug. 16.—Payments totaling $126.077.20 were made Saturday to growers affiliated with the McPherson Heights Citrus association, according to C. W. Post, plant manager. This sum represents receipts from the first pool extending from May 1 to July 1. Approximately 127 cars were shipped during that period.

The second pool will not be finished until all fruit is sold and returns made, which will take three weeks, stated Post.

The third pool, now being shipped, will last until September 15. Another pool will conclude the season, which will end about November 1.

In all, approximately 400 cars will be shipped this season, according to Post. This is a record shipment for the McPherson plant, it is stated.

Prices so far this season have been good and, according to Post, there will be little or no drop in prices.

Capistrano School To Open Aug. 23

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Aug. 16.—The San Juan Capistrano grammar school will open August 23, making it the first school in the county to begin the new year's work. So many of the pupils are employed in the walnut harvest that it is the policy of the trustees to open school early and then close for a month during the walnut picking season. In this way both the growers and the school are accommodated without loss.

OFFICIALS LEAVE FOR CONVENTION

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 16.—Charles G. Boster, president of the board of trustees, and Charles Furr, city clerk, left Saturday afternoon by automobile for Yosemite valley, where they will represent this city at the convention of the California League of Municipalities, which will be in session all this week.

4 SAVED FROM DROWNING BY LIFE GUARDS

Four lives were saved at Orange county beaches yesterday by life guards.

Frank Holz, of 615 Stanford avenue, Los Angeles, owes his life to the quick action of Glen Cole, Huntington Beach life guard, who dragged Holz and an unidentified man from the surf at Eleventh street, Huntington Beach, Wednesday afternoon.

Holz was caught in a rip tide and carried for out beyond the breaker line. An unidentified man swam to his rescue and succeeded in keeping him afloat until Life Guard Cole arrived with a life buoy. Both men were exhausted when Cole arrived.

Two rescues were effected at Balboa, according to reports. The two men, whose names were not learned, were caught in a small rip tide near the Balboa pier but were rescued by life guards.

DR. BALL FOR ASSEMBLYMAN

The Register is convinced that Dr. C. D. Ball of Santa Ana ought to be given the Republican nomination for Assemblyman. This conclusion has been reached not without giving the situation serious thought and consideration, not without a careful review of the legislative careers of the two candidates involved, not without considering the issues at stake in the state campaign. Our conclusion, after due consideration of the matter, is definite and positive: Dr. Ball should be elected.

Upon one issue alone, Dr. Ball is deserving of the support of the voters of Orange county. That one issue is that of Colorado river development legislation. By all means, Orange county should have representation at Sacramento wholeheartedly in favor of whatever legislation is necessary to give support to the Swing-Johnson bill at Washington, representation that is in favor of an enactment, such as was refused by the last legislature, whereby Southern California cities may join in bringing water of the Colorado river to them for domestic use. Unless cities are supplied with domestic water from this source, inevitably they must draw upon sources now supplying water for irrigation.

Dr. Ball has been a water conservationist for years. He was the first citizen of Santa Ana, some years ago, to point out the need of development of water resources for this city.

Our advocacy of Dr. Ball's candidacy is no reflection upon the high standing and high character of his opponent, Mr. Hartman, for whom personally the Register has always had the highest regard. We do believe that Mr. Hartman's votes on Colorado river legislation at the last legislature, and the fact that he is recognized as belonging in the camp of Governor Richardson, who up to this moment has not endorsed the Swing-Johnson bill, makes it advisable for Orange county to send someone beside Mr. Hartman to represent them at Sacramento.

Dr. Ball's attitude upon the Swing-Johnson bill is clearcut and positive, and will remain so regardless of who is Governor for the next four years. We can depend upon his judgment in matters pertaining to Orange county's interests.

WOMAN IS CHAMPION

The most notable thing about Gertrude Ederle's success in swimming the English Channel was the fact that she was the first woman to perform that feat. It was the fact that she beat the records of all the men who had ever done it.

Since the channel swim is recognized as the world's hardest swimming test, it follows that today this 18-year-old American girl is supreme in her sport. In our flamboyant parlance, she stands forth as "swimming champion of all time."

That is, until another woman beats her record. That may happen any day.

And how about men? Some man may beat her, of course. Yet here is one sport, and a particularly arduous sport at that, in which women, for some reason not yet fully understood, appear to possess natural superiority over men. If half a dozen men swam the channel before Miss Ederle, it was probably because men so long had the field almost entirely to themselves. With women crowding in to compete for the honor, men may soon be outclassed in the greatest swimming classic as they have been frequently of late in minor contests.

It may not be any too good for the women physiologically, to engage in such strenuous contests, but in this age of feminine ambition and achievement it is very good for them mentally. And the athletic example set by feminine champions should benefit millions of women, if they disregard the competitive element and take up swimming or other sports for the sake of wholesome exercise.

KINGS AND CARROTS

It is a touching story that comes from London, regarding King George and his horse.

This story has nothing to do with the horse which threw His Majesty during the war, and thereby induced his physicians to insist that the king relax his self-imposed rule and take something stronger than tea. It was on that occasion that an interested American spread the story—probably exaggerated—that the king knighted his horse. The tale now is concerned with carrots.

George, it appears, is doing more riding now than his eldest son, and making a better job of it. He rides regularly in Hyde park. And invariably, when he returns to Buckingham Palace, there is waiting within "a groom with a carrot from the royal garden."

Some of our tourists, kodaking as they go, should get a picture of that royal groom holding aloft his royal carrot, while he waits.

But let us continue. "After dismounting, the king gives the carrot to his horse, which in return rubs his nose against the king's arm. The horse will not accept the carrot from anyone else, and refuses to be led away without it."

Now, don't throw anything. Kings have to do something, don't they? And newspaper men have to have something to write about in midsummer. And anyway, feeding a horse carrots is as useful as most of the things that kings do nowadays.

LIVING DRAGONS—MAY BE SO?

Alan Cobham, famous British airman, flying to Australia, sees on an island of the antipodes "two live dragons" comparable with the fabled monster slain by St. George, the English patron saint.

The beasts—or perhaps the reptiles—are described as "about 10 feet long, possessing huge claws with which they are able to kill and devour animals as large as horses." They are believed to be direct descendants of the prehistoric monsters whose fossils are found in the rocks and exhibited in natural history museums.

Thus the remote past meets the present, and science joins hands with legend. Nearly all races have their traditions of dragons, and in China they have become an inseparable part of the national art.

It has been considered possible that such legends really represented dim human memories of struggles with such monsters as the dinosaur and his fearsome relatives far back in the infancy of the race. Few, however, have imagined that there might be actual survivors of that dread brood still existing on the earth. Komodo Island, near Bima, which is near Australia, should be an interesting port of call for future air tourists. However, some will suspect Cobham of having an imagination.

SIGHTSEEING TRIPS

The suggestion made by Ralph C. Smedley, secretary of the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A., that steps be taken to establish sightseeing trips through Orange county is worthy of more than passing attention and consideration. It is the Register's opinion that some definite action should be taken to make the suggestion effective.

The Register is ready to give hearty support, financially, journalistically and morally, toward the establishment of the tour. We believe the project can be made a practical business success, a profitable business enterprise, as well as the biggest and best community advertisement within our reach.

"We must do something to get our share of automobile tourist traffic and stop-over business," wires J. P. Baumgartner, editor of the Register, who is on an automobile trip through Washington and Oregon. "It is a bonanza in the Pacific northwest."

On Re-apportionment

Los Angeles, never famous for any regard for others when seeking an advantage, has filed with the secretary of state an initiative petition to place on the ballot a re-apportionment plan which would give to Los Angeles, San Francisco and Alameda counties entire control of the state legislature.

Thousands of dollars have been spent in securing signatures to this initiative, and even the machinery of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce has been utilized to give to Los Angeles county, San Francisco and Alameda counties the most unfair advantage over the rural sections ever conceived by a grasping community.

Los Angeles sends her missionaries through the valley, by special train, asking that the San Joaquin buy her manufactured goods and products. Returning home she frames an initiative that would deprive the San Joaquin of representation in the state legislature.

Nearly one hundred thousand dollars has already been spent by Los Angeles in securing the necessary names to get her re-apportionment proposal on the ballot, and from a reliable source it is learned that the budget to put the proposition over at the general election has been set at $120,000.

In opposition to the Los Angeles re-apportionment plan is what is known as the federal plan. This latter plan is being sponsored by the California Farm Bureau Federation, chambers of commerce, service clubs, women's clubs and all sorts of organized bodies, merely in a spirit of fairness to the rural districts. In plain words the difference between the Los Angeles plan and the Federal Plan is Rural Representation vs. Metropolitan Control. If the Los Angeles plan succeeds it will mean control of the rural districts by the three large counties—Los Angeles, San Francisco and Alameda. The rural districts will be left without representation.

Children and Birds

Out of the $5500 given by Mrs. Russell Sage for a campaign of education in southern schools has grown a great movement for the protection of bird life. It was in 1910 that the attention of Mrs. Sage was called to the fact that in the southern states particularly there was much destruction of bird life, and she started the experiment with a view of teaching the children in the schools to know and love the birds.

Today there are 327,776 children enrolled in the Junior Department of the Audubon Society, an increase of 28,471 members over a year ago. A report which has been issued within the week says: "The only thing in the future which will prevent the Junior work from still further expanding will be a lack of funds."

Stimulation of interest in bird life by these clubs complements the program of nature-study in the school. In the words of John T. Tigert, United States Commissioner of Education: "As a result of the acquaintance of the children with birds in this way, the old destructive attitude is rapidly disappearing among boys and girls of our generation. Indirectly the accomplishments have a considerable value for better citizenship training, in addition to the direct educational benefits derived."

The cause of protecting bird life serves a double purpose in that it saves to the country the feathered population and inculcates in the children reached, lessons of kindness and thought, as well as valuable information concerning the birds.

Put Safety in Roads

Make the highways of America "safe for democracy"—or for the democrats who travel them. This is the gist of the plea made by Herbert C. Hoover, Secretary of Commerce. Highways must be kept wide, to protect life and to accommodate traffic. There must be enough roads to meet the requirements of transportation and to prevent congestion.

Uniform traffic regulations throughout the United States and Canada are requisite, Mr. Hoover says, to assure safety and to "check the terrific toll in life and property that reckless automobile driving levies annually in America." More than 30,000 lives have been lost in traffic in the last year, and property loss has been in excess of $600,000,000, according to estimate of Mr. Hoover. These figures should startle the nation. Seemingly, however, they are accepted by many as a matter of course. The public consciousness of the gravity of this peril must be aroused. When men of the influence and ability of Herbert C. Hoover make striking appeals to the public, they should have weight.

Health Topics

Surgeon General, United States Health Service

KEEP SWIMMING POOLS SANITARY

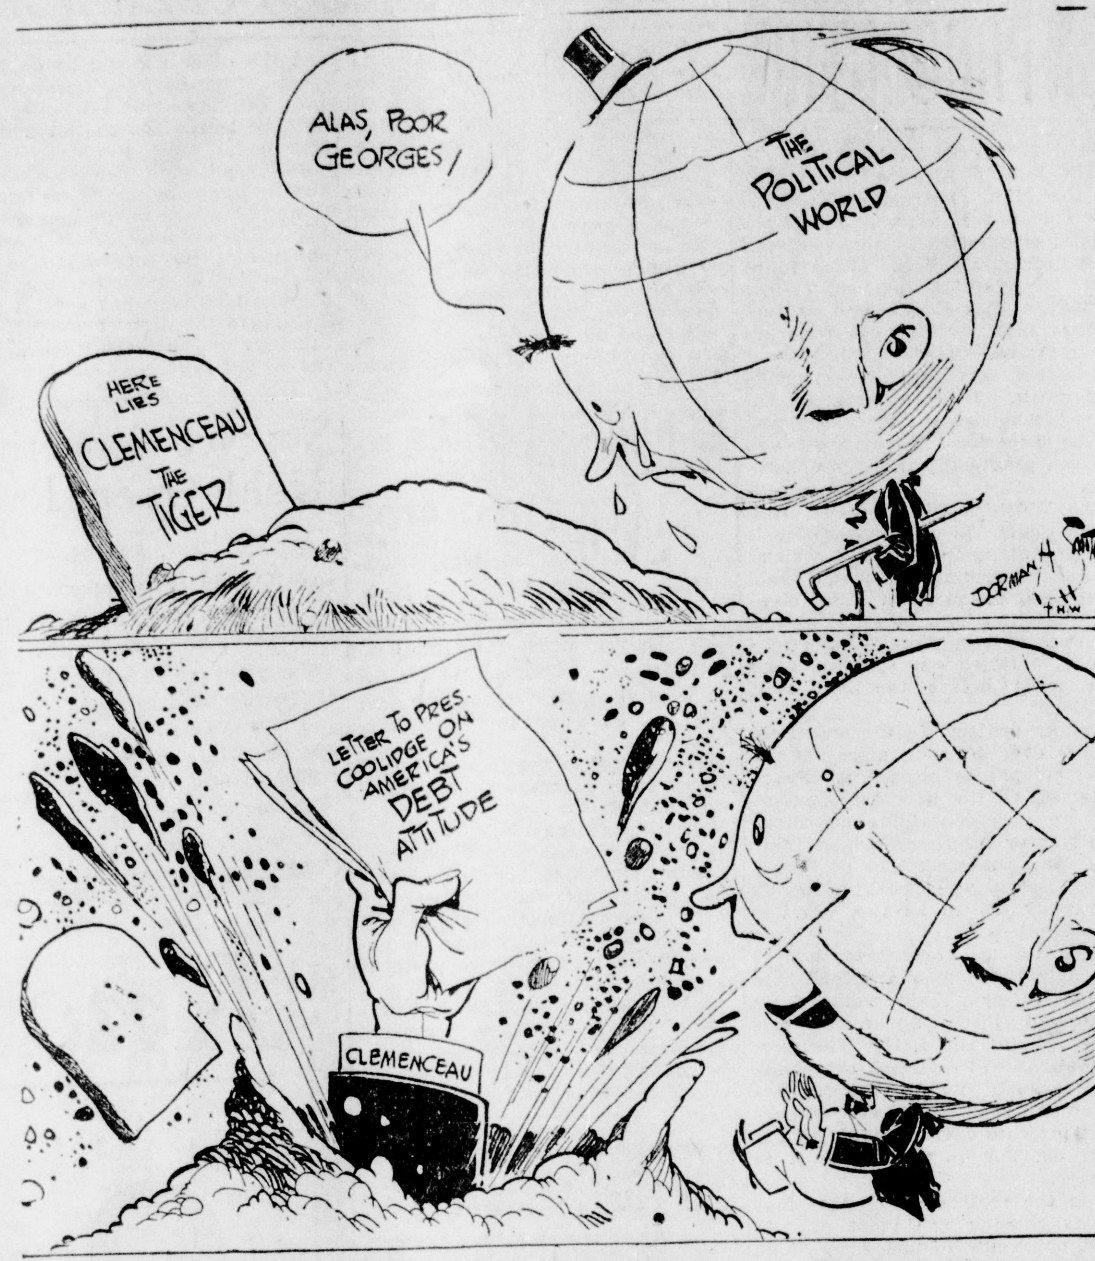

Every summer season, with its "dog days" and crowded public bathing beaches and pools, brings epidemics of infection the nation over.

Eye, ear, nose and throat troubles and skin eruptions reach a high peak during the hot months, mostly due to the carelessness of a few persons in the crowds of bathers.

It is a serious problem from the standpoint of the health of the community. Often, too, the community itself is at fault, perhaps in laxity of enforcement of restriction. Danger lurks in every minor infection. An appalling number of contagious disease cases is directly traceable each year to the swimming places.

Many bathing beaches, even those at the ocean, are often partially protected by breakwaters or are in shallow bays or inlets. This prevents the beaches from being washed away and renders the bathers rather safe. But in these partially protected places, the water is often stagnant or there is very little exchange of the water there with fresh water.

In a Political Grave-Yard

Sanitation and Progress

Long Beach Press-Telegram

Under the general heading of sanitation may be grouped all of the basic needs which will bar slum districts from any city. Sanitation calls for adequate sewerage, for garbage disposal, for wide, clean streets and sidewalks, for well built and well ventilated homes, for pure air, for an abundant water supply, for neat yards surrounding residences. These conditions can be assured under right supervision of an official character, and by the encouragement of civic pride.

It is much easier for a community to prevent the establishment of slums than to eradicate their evils after such growth has been permitted. California has a housing act that gives broad powers to the state for the enforcing of sanitary rules. That law was passed in anticipation of the large foreign immigration that was expected to come to the West Coast with the opening of the Panama Canal. The World war intervened; and following that conflict immigration was checked by Congress. Meanwhile, the act has been fully tested and strengthened where needed.

California cities have supplemented this law by regulations meeting local requirements. The zoning power also has given the municipality and the county new weapons for the protection of the public interest.

In many particulars, it is well that California is so well equipped at the beginning of what promises to be a great industrial development. The high standard which has been fixed here in the creation of residential districts offers an example that will be of no little value in saving the state from a repetition of those mistakes which today are expressed in the insanitary tenement districts of eastern manufacturing centers.

A mild climate, the motor car, and the good road are other agencies which tend to discourage slum life.

The small town which becomes a large city, and the large city which becomes a metropolis, will be serving their own welfare best by planning for sanitation on an expansive and complete scale, and by seeing that those plans are faithfully executed to meet promptly the needs which growth imposes.

Worth While Verse

JOURNEY'S END

Know'st thou where that kingdom lies?
Take no lantern in thy hand,
Search not the unfathomed skies,
Journey not o'er sea and land,
Gropo no more to east or west,
Heaven is locked within thy breast.

Splendors of the sun grow dim,
Stars are darkened by that light;
Thoughts that burn like seraphim
Through thine inner world tonight.
Set thy heel on Death and find
Love, new born, within thy mind.

In that kingdom folded lie
All that eyes believe they see;
All the hues of earth and sky,
Time, space and eternity.
Seek no more in worlds apart,
Heaven is folded in thy heart.

Life's amusing. People save so many things to see even though there isn't any return trip.
We all do things without thinking, and one is being bored with life.

Patience is considered a virtue when it often is merely a case of not knowing what to do.

Only Thing Wrong With Santa Ana

Under the heading, "Only Thing Wrong With Santa Barbara," the Santa Barbara News, recently, published an editorial that was read by a Santa Ana, who, substituting the word "Santa Ana" for "Santa Barbara," reconstructed an editorial that seemed to him to be strikingly applicable to Santa Ana.

Portions of the editorial from the Santa Barbara News follow: "The ONLY thing wrong with Santa Barbara is that we can't see all the things that are right with it."

"We have a climate that positively has no equal anywhere, but we don't appreciate it enough to advertise it as we should."

"We have beauty unsurpassed on the American continent, but we let other communities advertise less than we have and draw thousands of people—and their money."

"We have ideal bathing beaches—unequaled anywhere yet we let other communities with nothing so good draw their thousands every Sunday and their all-summer crowds every year."

"There is nothing that can be enjoyed or done in any community that cannot be enjoyed more or done better here—but we don't tell the world about it."

"Where is there such an opportunity for the man who loves to fish while his family basks in the sunshine on the sands in their bathing togs?"

"Where is going so good, horseback riding so attractive, motoring so productive of enjoyment, the outdoors so alluring as in Santa Barbara?"

"It takes the visitor to see our fine points and tell us what we ought to do."

"We have become so accustomed to the blessings of Nature that we accept it all as something quite nice but commonplace—and forget to herald it to the world and cash in on what we have."

"We have built a beautiful business section in a little over a year but do we enthuse over it and write to our friends about it and herald it in the newspapers and the magazines?"

"We wait for the out-of-town man or woman to come and see it and tell others about us."

"It is all very nice that the visitor will do this for us, but if we threw our own strength into the thing it would be better."

"We need to appreciate the good things we have here, a reawakened realization that we have the best city in the country and a stimulated enthusiasm to broadcast it to the world."

"The recent publicity this community has received in publications of national prominence proves this. It is easy to get if we would only unfold our attractions to those seeking them."

"Outsiders come in and see what we have and go into raptures over it."

"We need to feel towards Santa Barbara like the proud father of a new infant just beginning to talk—that it is the only thing that holds any great interest for us and that it is so great we just can't keep from talking about it. What we have would justify such an attitude."

"Other communities have one or two good things and they boast them to death. We can meet any community on almost any subject and produce something better."

"We can boast without feeling that we may be shamed by some other locality with something better."

Like the man who is selling all world clothing and knows his goods, we can go about our boasting with the forehand knowledge that we have the genuine article and can meet all competitors."

"Paraphrasing the motto of a well known automobile, we might say 'when better things are produced Santa Barbara will produce Santa Barbara' and it would be a fact."

"All that we fail to produce or have here that is not better than that found in any other community is the community pride and enthusiasm. We seem to lack these, at least in an organized way that makes it worth while to the community."

"A few men and women travel from the New England states to spend the winter or the summer, as the case may be, in Santa Barbara because of its charms. They know. How many more would do the same if they but knew what we had?"

"The visitors are invariably SOLD, 100 per cent on Santa Barbara."

"If we could only sell our own people as thoroughly as we are able to impress the visitor, and our people would then broadcast their enthusiasm to the remainder of the world, there would be no question of the upward trend of real estate prices, no discussion of whether business conditions will hold up; no wondering if prosperity will continue."

"Santa Barbara has assets that no other community has. We don't have to put up bonuses for factories and pull strings for industries. We can bring THE PEOPLE here if we try and the people will bring the money. One wealthy new resident and his retinue of retainers is as good as a factory as a commercial asset."

"Beauty is a drawing card everywhere, whether it be in the flapper's cheeks or the gardens of the wealthy. Santa Barbara has it to a large extent, and any municipality on the American continent—and failing to play our best cards when we fail to blazon to the world the fine things we have here to offer those who are seeking a pleasant place to live and to play."

Fads of the Moment

A synopsis of what fashionable women are wearing may be gleaned at the country clubs and resorts about New York. Here, one sees the well-dressed woman arrayed in clothes which depict her personality rather than those which custom demands she wear upon the streets.

Frocks are not always unusual in their lines or colorings since style and all colors are seen in the streets and in popular restaurants these days. Jewelry and hair styles, however, are often most unusual.

For instance, anklets are very much in evidence both in Atlantic City and in Westchester resorts. Some are wearing them under the stocking and others wear them on top of the stocking. They are worn by girls and middle-aged women alike and as seen in daytime as well as at evening. The most peculiar anklet is the tiny gold chain which is worn under the stocking. Flexible bands of diamonds are chosen by many for evening wear and one even sees two or three slave chain anklets worn on one leg. Jade dangles on silver chains are worn by several girls on the Atlantic City boardwalk.

Half-does are too numerous to count. With taffeta frocks of quaint type one occasionally sees the semiboyish boy curled upwards all over the head forming tiny ripples with a bang effect falling over the forehead. This is particularly attractive on the girl with cameo features. Some of the young women who still have long hair comb the hair toward one side of the head and fashion a bun over one eye. Boyish girls with severe haircuts often wear round disks of pearls over the ears at evening time when they do not wish to show their ears.

As to frocks, young Misses of the fashionable world either wear fluffy ruffled tulles or chiffons with slender bodices or taffetas with uneven like headed frocks minus backs to figure fitting bodices of Princess type. Very few older women wear decided flaring hems either for day or evening wear.

Matrons turn again towards long pendant type earrings for evening. Huge tri-colored pendants of diamonds or cut steel are among the newest shapes. Brilliant shawls and shoes of matching shades are decidedly popular in clubs and restaurants where dancing is in progress. One invariably wears a shawl after dancing before venturing before open windows or on verandas.

Brazelets have never been so prevalent, as many as eight being worn by one popular matron.

One thing is noticeable at well dressed gatherings and that is the absence of rouge. Very little rouge is being worn by the women who know the art of make-up. The cheeks are either pale ivory or light pink and the lips may be as red as one wishes to wear. Fluffy hair-does are entirely taboo with the Smart Set, a marvel being their only concession towards coquetry.

Vocabulary of Average Man

The Mentor

What is the ratio of the words you use to those that are your birthright? Are you rich or poor in verbal currency? If you are an average American, making no specific effort to increase your wealth of language, your drawing account on the dictionary is not more than three thousand to four thousand words. Shakespeare plays contain fifteen thousand different words. Milton's works half that number.

Some of the authors whose choice and variety of words we most admire, Browning, Stevenson, Benjamin Franklin, made a systematic business of adding to their fund and there are interesting stories as to their methods of doing this.

R. L. S., who became a supreme artificer in the exercise of words, began as a boy to enlarge his vocabulary by deliberate means. Wherever he went he carried in his pocket two books, "one to read and one to write in." As I walked my mind was busy fitting what I saw with appropriate words. When I sat by the roadside I would either read or a penny book would be in my hand, to note down the features of the scene or comment on some halting stanza. Thus I lived with words. And what I wrote was for no ulterior use. It was written consciously for practice.

Robert Browning's novitate as a poet was spent in "reading and digesting the whole of Johnson's dictionary," and many an exotic and little known specimen did he uncover.
